2070: PM UNVEILS INDIA'S NET-ZERO TARGET AT COP26

Developed countries must set aside 1% of GDP for green projects in developing countries: PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi set India's target for achieving carbon neutrality as the year 2070 at the COP26 climate summit in Glasgow.

In comparison, the US and European Union have set 2050 as their deadline for achieving net-zero emissions, while China, Russia and Saudi Arabia are aiming for 2060. Net-zero emissions will require reaching an overall balance between greenhouse gas removal from the atmosphere and greenhouse gas emissions.

Modi's net-zero pledge was one of the five he made at the COP26 conference in Glasgow, Scotland. Among the others were that India will increase its non-fossil energy capacity to 500GW by 2030 and that the country will get half of its energy from renewable resources by the same date. Modi also said India will reduce its carbon emissions by one billion tonnes between now and 2030, and reduce the carbon intensity of its economy by 45%, again by 2030.

He added that it was the need of the hour to put pressure on those countries that have failed to deliver on their promises about climate finance.

On Sunday, at a G20 summit session in Rome, Modi said, "Without concrete progress on climate finance, pressuring the developing countries for climate action is unjust."

He recommended at the G20 that developed countries should set aside at least 1% of their Gross Domestic Product (GDP) for financing green projects in developing countries.

Earlier on Monday, US President Joe Biden called for global cooperation in his address to COP26: "We can keep the goal of limiting global warming of 1.5°C within reach if we come together." However, Biden offered no new commitments in his speech, though he said he will release a long-term plan to bring the US to net-zero emissions by 2050.

China doesn't have any new pledges either and its president, Xi Jinping, isn't even attending the summit. By far the world's biggest carbon polluter, China said recently it will aim to peak its emissions by 2030.

UK launches 'India Green Guarantee'

The UK will provide an "India Green Guarantee" to the World Bank, to unlock an additional £750 million for green projects. Britain has also pledged over £210 million for developing nations, which includes electric vehicles in India | P14

MODI CALLS FOR $1 TRILLION CLIMATE FINANCING

Modi urged developed nations to commit $1 trillion in climate financing, saying this should be tracked the same way as climate mitigation. "Justice would truly be served if pressure is put on those countries that have not lived up to their climate finance commitments," he said.

14-day custody for ex-SBI chief in 'loan fraud' case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

FORMER SBI chairman Pratip Chaudhuri, who was arrested on Sunday by the Rajasthan police from his Delhi residence for his alleged role in a loan fraud case, was on Monday sent to 14-day judicial custody.

The arrest was in connection with the Godawan Group's hotel project in Jaisalmer, for which it had taken a ₹24 crore loan from SBI in 2008. The loan was declared NPA after the group could not repay the loan following the demise of its owner, and the bank moved to seize the property. The property, said to be worth about ₹200 crore, was subsequently sold to Alchemist ARC for ₹25 crore. Post retirement, Chaudhuri joined the ARC as director.

Pratip Chaudhuri

However, SBI has contested the allegations saying the asset was sold after following all laid-down processes. "The project remained incomplete for over three years and the key promoter passed away in April 2010," SBI said, adding that the account turned non-performing in June 2010.

Notably, the development comes at a time when the finance ministry has formulated a 'staff accountability framework' to protect honest bank employees from being penalised for bonafide decisions involving loans up to ₹50 crore, if they go wrong.

The ministry, however, clarified that the framework will cover only genuine decisions and not those involving malfeasance or malafide intentions.

Police said a case was registered against Chaudhari in 2015 for allegedly seizing the premier hotel property in the loan settlement case and selling it at a throwaway price through fraudulent means. It was also alleged that Chaudhari later joined as a director of the board of the company that had bought the hotel.

Priority to get 75 per cent jobs for Kannadigas in pvt, govt sectors: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai said that preference will be given to Kannadigas in jobs at private, government and autonomous government institutions. "The government will give priority to get 75 per cent of jobs to Kannadigas in skilled and semiskilled sectors with the effective implementation of the industrial policy," he added during the Karnataka Rajyotsava celebrations at Kanteerava Stadium on Monday.

Stating that mere renaming is not sufficient till the standard of living of people in that region improves, Bommai said the regional imbalance and disparities should go and all regions should grow together. "We are committed to preparing an action plan for the development of Kittur-Karnataka region," he added.

He said that the government will take a decision in the upcoming cabinet meeting on renaming Mumbai-Karnataka as 'Kittur-Karnataka' region, which is a cluster of districts in North Karnataka. "After the unification of Karnataka, our border disputes started and ended. But yet, we continue to hear news of disputes. What is the point in calling it Mumbai-Karnataka?"

The upgradation of 180 government ITI colleges will be completed this month and dedicated to students, he added.

"This government has provided an opportunity of studying in one's mother tongue from primary level to higher education. The New Education Policy enables students to compete globally," he added. P6

Neglected Mallasandra quarry a haven for criminals

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

EVER wondered where the stones for Vidhana Soudha came from? The Mallasandra quarry in Dasarahalli zone is not too far, and lies dilapidated and neglected, and of late, has turned into a haven for illegal activities. The quarry was recently in the news when an eight-year-old boy drowned in an unprotected pit while playing with friends. He tried to pull out his slippers and slipped into the deep pit filled with rainwater.

Two government departments, the Public Works Department (PWD) and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) are not taking responsibility for the quarry's maintenance.

Mallasandra park, maintained by BBMP, is next to the quarry site. "Often, security guards on patrol try to drive away miscreants during the day, but there is no control at night. A security guard is deployed to take care of the park and area outside the quarry, which is under the purview of the PWD," said a BBMP official. PWD engineers said the area will be looked into.

The quarry is important as the greenish-blue stones used for the interior quadrangle of Vidhana Soudha were procured from Mallasandra quarry.

Noted historian Arun Prasad told TNIE that former chief minister Kengal Hanumanthaiah was very particular that the architecture and stones used in the construction of Vidhana Soudha are local. Particularly because a visiting Russian team had commented that the region did not have its own architecture. So it was decided to have a neo-Dravidian form of architecture.

The greenish-blue stones used for the interior quadrangle of Vidhana Soudha were procured from Mallasandra quarry | EXPRESS

The elements used in the construction of Vidhana Soudha include architecture taken from Mysuru Palace, Bhoga Nandeeshwara temple, besides Chola style.

"He had insisted on Indian architecture and design. The granite stones used for the structure were also from quarries surrounding Bengaluru. The grey stones were from Hesaraghatta and Arahalli quarry. The Magadi porphyry (or Magadi pink) was from Magadi quarry and the Turuvekere mix-black granite was also from local quarries. Unfortunately, all the quarries are in bad condition," Prasad said.

The foundation for Vidhana Soudha was laid on August 13, 1951, by then Prime Minister Pt Jawaharlal Nehru. Construction started in 1952 and was completed in 1956, and was executed by the PWD.

TO pay tribute to actor Puneeth Rajkumar, residents of KR Puram have undertaken an afforestation drive to create Puneeth Rajkumar Vana or Appu Vana in the buffer zone of Bettarahalli lake, spread across 18 acres.

Residents and volunteers plant saplings near Bettarahalli lake

As a part of the exercise, 101 saplings were planted on Monday. "We have the space to plant over 1,000 saplings, but currently, we have set 500 as the target. This afforestation drive will not only increase the green cover of the area, but it is also the best way to remember the late actor," said Balaji Raghotham Bali, member of Citizen for KR Puram Constituency Group.

The lake and the buffer zone is under the jurisdiction of Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and the saplings were provided by the municipal corporation.

He added that initially the idea was to have a plantation drive around the lake. Later, after the death of the power star, they decided to dedicate the area to him. "Endemic and medicinal species are being planted so that the biodiversity is benefited," he stated. Along with the volunteers who were involved in the plantation drive, many morning walkers also jumped on the green wagon. Several activists and conservationists suggested that fans of the late actor can undertake a similar initiative in their areas to honour him.

Baggage belt snag delays flights again

ENS @ Bengaluru

AFTER a technical snag that delayed flights at the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) on Sunday, a similar issue cropped up on Monday morning, with flyers of IndiGo flights suffering massive delays.

The baggage issue was finally set right by 12.20 pm, but as a cascading effect, flights continued to be delayed most of Monday.

Flights of all airlines, except IndiGo's, were operated on schedule. Flyers whose flights were yet to take off or who had landed at various airports without their baggage lambasted IndiGo on social media.

On why IndiGo was impacted, a source said that only Indigo had a separate baggage screening procedure with dedicated baggage screening belts in a space earmarked as Baggage Make-Up Area. "Due to the heavy load on the baggage system, it suffered a failure," he said.

Another source said an average of 120-plus flights from IndiGo depart every day from the airport. "A majority of flights were delayed by three to four hours," he added.

IndiGo declined to give any fresh statement about the issue on Monday. BIAL, however, stated, "A technical issue in the Baggage Handling System had disrupted baggage sortation at Bengaluru airport on October 31 and the first half of November 1. This has had an impact on the flights of IndiGo."

Dept mulls exams in Kannada for polytechnic students

Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said on Monday that the objective of the National Education Policy (NEP) is education in the regional language and hence, the state government has pledged to develop Kannada. Talking at the 66th Kannada Rajyotsava celebrations, he said that like engineering courses, which already commenced in Kannada language, the state is mulling on providing an opportunity to write polytechnic course examination in Kannada. "Textbooks will be prepared in both Kannada and English for students," he added. Talking about compulsory Kannada in higher education, he said that for the growth of the language, IT needs to be used efficiently. He further said that NEP aims to make the future of rural students bright. "Government schools and higher education institutions have taken steps on a war-footing. The government will ensure that no one in rural areas is left unemployed."

02nd November: Pluto is invisible to the naked eye but, were you able to see it, you'd notice that it is in a powerful relationship with romantic Venus. Now, Pluto is the planet of all unconscious and secret things and Venus is the symbol of love. What can this mean? I'll tell you later!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You may soon come to the conclusion that some of your plans are a trifle unrealistic but, quite honestly, you must ask yourself whether it matters. The answer is probably not. In fact, by striving for aims beyond your capacity you will define your limits with excellent consequences for the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The Taurean Bull now seems to have reached a point of no return at work and in activities involving public responsibilities and duties. May I offer a word of advice to all ambitious Taureans? Like a good general you must only fight battles you know you can win.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You have been through some fascinating personal periods recently, yet somewhere along the line you will begin to appreciate that your real blessings in life are much more valuable and lasting than fame, fortune and adulation. Your greatest treasure is your friends, the people who have stood by you through thick and thin.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Passions run high today. Many people will be involved in direct confrontations, yet there is no reason why you should not turn tough planetary energies to your advantage. You'd do well to avoid financial speculation, and try to get other people to be clear about their intentions.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Some partners and close associates still appear to be out of sorts although, if I might venture an opinion, it does seem that these people are singularly failing to make the most of their potential. Rather than listening to their moans, why don't you try and offer them some practical encouragement?

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You're quite a worrier, but try taking a deep breath and counting to ten whenever your security is threatened. Your romantic stars are likely to bring intrigue, mystery and possibly an element of confusion, as well as fond memories of the past.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You have some delicate choices to make. You are more than usually aware who you may trust and who must be kept in their place. Don't let people influence your judgment over public or professional matters unless they are fully familiar with all the circumstances, otherwise you may get misleading advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
A shake-up or showdown is about to take place, mainly because Mars is setting up a great deal of friction with Pluto. However, it will no doubt be a good move to clear the air, allowing everyone to get complaints off their chests, and perhaps to see that they were mistaken.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Wipe the slate clean now and put domestic irritations to one side. You are entering a phase which may include a few downs, but is generally likely to be much more enjoyable than usual. You must try not to be so reserved, for if you don't let people know what you're feeling, how can they ever understand you?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
If you could ever find the balance between your personal interests and those of your friends and associates, you'd be a happy person. At least you should now be able to achieve a better balance with lovers, spouses and anyone with whom you're intimately involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
A celestial adventure is beginning, though you may require something of a kick-start to push you into action. Keep an eagle eye open for storm clouds at work. For some reason certain people in authority seem to be in a singularly bad mood.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Today's planetary alignment brings out a side of your character that is deep, intense and brooding. You may channel your energies in a positive direction and be aware of the importance of your spiritual values. Give the highest priority to the truth.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said they are confident of the BJP winning Hangal and Sindgi seats with a big margin. Congress leader Siddaramaiah, too, expressed confidence that his party will win both the seats as people are disappointed with the government. He, however, said the results are not an indicator for future elections

BOOK TIME SLOT, RATIONS WILL BE DELIVERED TO DOORSTEPS

CM launches Janasevaka and Janaspandana to take governance closer to people

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

STARTING Monday, over 13 lakh ration card holders in Bengaluru can get foodgrains and other essentials provided through Public Distribution System (PDS) at their doorstep.

The Karnataka government, as part of the Janasevaka initiative, has started a number of schemes, including distribution of foodgrains.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said this service will start across the 28 assembly constituencies of Bengaluru Urban region, and will be available from January 26 across the state. He told reporters that the beneficiary can book the date and slot, and the delivery agent will bring the grains to their doorstep.

"The department of food and civil supplies will make arrangements for delivery. We have people for it. We chose Bengaluru because it has a large population, we can study pros and cons and extend it to the rest of Karnataka from January 26, including rural Karnataka," he said. He also approved the issue of 4.11 lakh fresh ration cards, which was a long-pending demand.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai flags off the Janasevaka (doorstep delivery of service) and Janaspandana (helpline number 1902) schemes on the occasion of Karnataka Rajyotsava on Monday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Bommai initiated Janasevaka (doorstep delivery of service) and Janaspandana (helpline number 1902) which includes 33 departments, excluding essential services like water supply and power. "Elected representatives should govern and make policies, executives should implement these policies. But there is some confusion among both, only if they understand their responsibility can we deliver pro-people service. People who go to government offices face difficulties, and even pay money, so we are going to their doorstep," he said.

The Administrative Reforms Commission headed by former Chief Secretary TM Vijaybhaskar had recommended making citizen services simpler and more effective, using technology. "We are also constituting a committee chaired by the Chief Secretary who will oversee implementation of Janasevaka and Janaspandana initiatives," he added.

Around 60 lakh people visit transport offices every month. To prevent this, the government has launched 30 contactless services, including vehicle registration, applying for Learner's Licence and other services. "Vehicle dealers can apply for vehicle registration online, we will begin with 10 big dealers," the CM said.

Recipients of the 66th Kannada Rajostava Awards at the Ravindra Kalashetra in Bengaluru on Monday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

No public nominations for awards from next yr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state government will do away with the process of nominations to choose recipients of Karnataka Rajyotsava awards from next year, and the cash prize will be increased to Rs5 lakh from the existing Rs 1 lakh.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday evening announced that the existing system of receiving applications for selection of the nominees will be shelved to make it more viable.

He said the age limit will be reduced to include those under 60 years and the court will be approached for this. The process of nomination will be replaced by direct selection by the government's recommendation and selection committee.

Meanwhile, winners of Mataad Mataad Kannada were also awarded at the event at Kanteerva Stadium on Monday.

Each year the awards are given in line with the number of years that the Karnataka Rajyothsava is celebrated. This year saw 66 awardees each taking home a cash prize of Rs 1 lakh. Awardees are chosen from various fields based on their social contributions or special achievements. The age limit of 60 is not applicable to national and international award winners and sportspersons at present.

Knock, knock, CM here... Home delivery of govt cards stuns citizens

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

MALLIGA, who is over 75 years old, shifted to Bengaluru from a small village in Tamil Nadu many years ago. She lives alone in Palace Guttahalli in Malleswaram. Once in a way, her son gives her some money, and sometimes, neighbours give her food.

On Monday, she was dumbfounded when Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai walked up to her house and gave her an old age pension card. It means that she gets a little money from next month. "I had applied for this card two years ago, but it was rejected. Now, I got the same from none other than the CM. I can never forget this," she gushed. And what did she say to the CM? "I didn't say anything, but he (CM) took my blessing. It felt so nice," Malliga said.

CM Basavaraj Bommai on the road as part of 'Janasevaka' scheme

Nasir (74) and his wife Asmathunissa (68) also got their senior citizen cards. "We were ready in the morning, and waiting for the Chief Minister. He came to our house and we are very happy," said Nasir, who was a cab driver. They did not run from pillar to post, and instead got the applications from the CM himself.

Bommai, along with Higher Education Minister and Malleswaram MLA Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, walked to doorsteps of citizens as part of 'Janasevaka', the scheme where government authorities deliver 56 services to citizens' doorsteps.

At a few selected houses, they delivered Residential Certificate, Income and Caste Certificate, Khata, Widow Pension, Labour Card, Senior Citizen Card, Aadhaar Card, Ayushman Health Card and other documents. They initially planned to use two-wheelers but decided against it. After covering two roads, the CM stopped for samosa and coffee.

Some were disappointed, like Prema, who had applied for widow pension. She was told the CM would visit her house and had kept it clean and tidy. "The CM may not have come because of time constraint. I was disappointed," she said.

Rangoli at Metro station on tourist attractions a hit

Bengaluru: The floor of the unpaid area as you climb down the stairs of the 'D' entry of the Dr BR Ambedkar (Vidhana Soudha) Metro Station (near High Court Gate No.2) was the cynosure of all Metro commuters from Monday morning. For, priest Akshay Jalihal had drawn a unique Rangoli depicting the map of Karnataka and its attractions, in the bright red and yellow colours of the State Flag to mark the 66th Kannada Rajyotsava. Gomateshwara statue, Shila Balike, Vidhana Soudha, Hampi chariot, Badami temple, Aihole and Pattadakal are the seven attractions that fill up the map in the specific districts they belong to. The 28-year-old Bengaluru native took 24 hours to complete his creative piece at the Metro station. Akshay began his drawing on Saturday and completed it late on Sunday.

Pledge to teach Kannada culture to others: Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

PRIMARY and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh said Kannadigas should take a pledge to teach their cultural heritage to all non-kannadigas.

At the Karnataka Rajyothsava celebrations at Kantheerava stadium on Monday, the minister said every citizen should take the responsibility of speaking, writing and reading in Kannada in their daily affairs. "And reading of Kannada newspapers, books, and watching Kannada plays and Yakshagana should be encouraged," he added.

About the State Government's Mataad Mataad Kannada initiative under which lakhs of citizens sang Kannada songs, Nagesh said, "It has succeeded in spreading the fragrance of Kannada language all over the state and it has to be a daily celebration too. We have to save and develop the language and the enthusiasm for the language should be seen throughout the year."

He put the onus of developing government schools on all citizens. Fewer than 30 children are enrolled in 14,236 schools in 20,718 government lower primary schools in the State. Similarly, out of 22,501 government higher primary schools, 2421 schools have enrolment of less than 35 children, he said.

"Schools play a vital role in the development of state, language, and culture of the land," Nagesh said, adding that love and pride for the language should be honed in students by parents and teachers.

Bypoll results today: A crucial test for Bommai

RAMU PATIL @Bengaluru

THE results of fiercely-fought bypolls to Hanagal and Sindagi Assembly constituencies will be announced on Tuesday. Ahead of counting of votes, both ruling BJP and Opposition Congress leaders expressed confidence that their respective candidates would win both the seats that went to polls on Saturday. Though the results will not have any bearing on the government, ensuring the victory of BJP candidates is crucial for Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai as it will assert his leadership within and outside the party, especially ahead of a series of elections leading up to the Assembly polls in 2023.

Well aware of the implications of the results -- especially with the party high command declaring that the 2023 elections would be fought under his leadership -- the chief minister had camped at the Hanagal Assembly segment for over a week and took it upon himself to hold strategy meetings at the state level and address even small gatherings at villages. The Lingayat-dominated Hanagal Assembly constituency, which was represented by senior BJP leader CM Udasi, adjoins Bommai's own constituency Shiggaon in Haveri district. That makes it all the more important for the chief minister to retain the seat.

"We are fully confident of winning both the seats," said MLC and BJP State General Secretary N Ravi Kumar. In Hanagal, Udasi had done good work and the chief minister campaigned extensively and in Sindagi, there is a lot of goodwill for the BJP candidate, he added.

BJP is also banking on the ability of JDS, which has fielded candidates from a minority community in both constituencies, to split votes from this block, especially in Sindagi. Former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda and former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy campaigned extensively in Sindagi, which the party won in the 2018 Assembly polls. The accusation against the regional party is that it is trying to split the minority votes to help BJP. But JDS leaders dismiss such charges.

While BJP banked on extensive campaigning by the chief minister, ministers, the party's well-oiled organisational machinery and the JDS factor, Congress too had gone on aggressive campaigning to win the seats and stop its losing streak.

Tuesday's results will prove if BJP's victory run contiues, whether Congress manages to make a comeback ahead of elections to Legislative Council seats, zilla and taluk panchayats and BBMP and if JDS is still relevant in state politics.

BITCOIN, increasingly considered a safe and lucrative investment, is creating a buzz in Karnataka's political circles. While top-ranking police officials and CID officers clarify that there is nothing scandalous about investing in bitcoins, what is this scandal all about?

The long-drawn debate over bitcoins centres around an agent Sri Krishna, alias 'Shriki', who had in his possession hundreds of bitcoins and had collected about Rs 2,600 crore from various high networth individuals, including two politicians from the ruling party. Siddaramaiah is already making allegations against the government.

The scandal involves getting details of who invested in bitcoins, and where they got the money from. In response to Siddaramaiah's question, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai pointed out that the matter was referred to the Enforcement Directorate in March, and to the CBI in April. To this, Siddaramaiah shot back asking why it was not made public until he raised the issue.

Bommai countered this by saying the matter was brought to light in 2018, when Siddaramaiah was CM, and said the entire thing should be investigated since 2018.

Bommai alleged that Sriki had got narcotics through the darknet. He also said the accusations will ricochet on the Congress. Siddaramaiah is asking for investigations to bring out the identities of persons who have invested, quantum of investment and details of transactions and from whose accounts the money was paid. He said the people who are in touch with Sriki need to be exposed. The matter was taken up by the ED in March.

Siddaramaiah has privately expressed skepticism that it was taken up suo motu by ED, as no one needs to recommend any case to them, and even considering they did recommend why has this not been brought into public domain. He is demanding that Sriki's statements about whom he is connected to politically need to be known.

GST collection in K'taka goes up 18% in October

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

GOODS and Service Tax collection in Karnataka has gone up a whopping 18 per cent in October this year compared to the same month last year. This was due to better collection and compliance as well as efforts by all the departments to plug evasion, according to officials.

Additional Chief Secretary (Finance) I S N Prasad and Commercial Taxes Commissioner C Shikha explained that enforcement activities picked up steadily after the lockdowns, and inspection of tax evaders and fraud cases, and tax avoidance, are being taken up on top priority. "The GST collection has gone up because the technology platform has stabilised. They are able to detect wrong input tax credit, and the compliance also has increased. These will continue to increase and GST collection will grow at a faster rate," former National Finance Commission member Prof Govind Rao said.

The Commercial Taxes Department had taken several proactive steps to ensure better collections, they said. "Vacant posts are filled. There is regular transfer of officers from sensitive posts like the enforcement wing to non-sensitive wings. Departmental audit is picking up. Taxpayers are making payments on audit observations. During lockdown and for some period, there was some slowdown in enforcement activities which has picked up," they said.

Low-key! Dasara spend touches ₹4.22 cr this year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

A total of Rs 4.22 crore has been spent by the state government for the Mysuru Dasara celebration this year which is Rs 2.07 crore higher than what was incurred in the Dasara celebration last year.

Revealing a detailed account of Dasara-2021 expenses, which was held in a low-key manner similar to 2020 due to the prevailing Covid-19 situation, District Minister S T Somashekhar said that the Chief Minister had earmarked Rs 6 crore for Dasara celebrations, of which Rs 50 lakh each was given to Mandya and Chamarajanagar district administrations for Dasara there while Rs 20 lakh was allocated to Hassan district administration for Arkalagud Dasara.

"While the remaining grant was used for Mysuru Dasara which incurred Rs 4.22 lakh totalling it to Rs 5.42 crore," he said.

"A majority of the money was spent towards Dasara cultural programmes as nearly Rs 1.03 crore was paid to artistes' remuneration while Rs 93 lakh was spent on erecting stages and other works. Rs 50 lakh was spent for Dasara elephant management while Rs 40 lakh was for honorarium to the erstwhile Mysuru royal family. As this year's Dasara was held in a simple manner focusing more on virtual event, over Rs 11.09 lakh was spent for webcasting, Rs 6.22 lakh for live streaming of Jamboo Savari event, Rs 10.76 lakh for cleanliness and Rs 10 lakh for Rangayana to hold the Dasara Rangotsava," he said.

The government had incurred an expenditure of Rs 2.05 crore on the Dasara celebration in Mysuru last year.

Responding to a question on measures taken to improve the tourism sector in the region, Minister Somashekhar said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has already announced plans to make Mysuru a perfect tourist hotspot to attract visitors on all 365 days and not only during Dasara. "A meeting in this regard will be held soon," he said.

Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramiah on Monday urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to consider bestowing the Padma Shri award on actor Puneeth Rajkumar, and the State Government to send a recommendation to the Centre on this

Cardiologists see huge rush of patients

Most of them are psychosomatic cases triggered by sudden death of actor Puneeth at a young age

CHETANA BELAGERE
@ Bengaluru

ACTOR Puneeth Rajkumar's death at 46 due to cardiac arrest has triggered panic among youngsters and even elders, who have been making a beeline for hospitals for cardiac checks. Though it was a public holiday on Monday, doctors at various hospitals saw a three-fold increase in patients rushing to emergency with complaints of chest pain, burning sensation, arm pain, etc.

"At Jayadeva Hospital in Bengaluru alone, we saw 1,500 OPD patients on November 1 till afternoon and in Mysuru there were another 1,000 patients. Normally, we see about 75 cases in an emergency, but on Sunday we saw 550," said Dr CN Manjunath, director of Jayadeva Hospital.

Doctors across several hospitals agreed that it was not only youngsters, but even the elderly felt they had to go for a quick check-up. Dr Pradeep Kumar D, Senior Consultant - Interventional Cardiology, Aster CMI Hospital, said, "There have been at least a three-fold increase to the emergency room as well as OPD. People are coming with complaints of chest pain, and evaluations, such as ECG, echocardiogram, TMT tests and cardiac enzymes like troponin, are done. Some enquire about coronary CT angiography."

It was only a knee-jerk reaction for many, while several patients had only psychosomatic symptoms, the doctors said.

"There were many patients who didn't have any cardiac-related issues, but anyway came with complaints. This is mostly panic that has set in after watching TV continuously on Puneeth's death and also due to viral messages on WhatsApp asking people not to ignore or neglect such pains," Dr Manjunath explained.

While most visitors were in their 40s, Dr Abhijit Kulkarni, Cardiologist, Apollo Hospitals, said, "It is not just now. Even after the deaths of Chiranjeevi Sarja and Siddharth Shukla, we saw such a rush. On the night Puneeth died, our emergency was filled with patients coming in with cardiac-related complaints," he said.

However, Dr Rajpal Singh, Director and Interventional Cardiologist, Fortis Hospitals, said, "Although a declared public holiday, I had a busy, full OPD on Monday with more than half of them being walk-in young patients concerned about their heart condition."

Doctors said such a panic reaction won't help. Instead, people should go for a thorough yearly check-up and maintain a healthy heart. One should eat a healthy diet, maintain an ideal body weight, stop smoking and exercise regularly. "Moderate-intensity exercise, like brisk walking or jogging, for 45 minutes a day at least six days a week is recommended. People doing more rigorous exercises should get themselves evaluated by doctors with an ECG/echo and, if required, a TMT," said Dr Pradeep said.

Power of Puneeth: Star's eyes give sight to 4

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

LEGENDARY actor Puneeth Rajkumar's eyes were donated to four people on the same day. This was done using an advanced technique, and in honour of the Rajkumar family, the transplant was free, announced Dr Bhujang Shetty, Chairman and Managing Director, Narayana Nethralaya. "In the midst of such a great tragedy, Puneeth Rajkumar's family agreed to donate his eyes, following in the footsteps of his father Dr Rajkumar and mother Parvathamma. We collected Appu's eyes the day he died and the transplant was done the very next day," Dr Shetty said.

He said this technique has been used for the first time in Karnataka, with four people benefiting from the donation. Usually, eyes are donated to only two people. Here, the cornea of each eye was sliced into half, and the front portion was given to one beneficiary and the second portion to another beneficiary.

The procedures performed were two different techniques of Lamellar Keratoplasty. In Deep Anterior Lamellar Keratoplasty (DALK), the outer or superficial part of the cornea was transplanted on two young patients with corneal dystrophy and keratoconus. Both these conditions predominantly affect the superficial layer of the cornea, while the deeper part is normal. Only the superior part was replaced, and the endothelium of the patient was retained.

In Descemet's Stripping Endothelial Keratoplasty (DSEK), the inner or deeper layer of the cornea is transplanted for two patients with corneal endothelial decompensation, affecting the innermost layer of the cornea. In this procedure, only the endothelium is replaced with a small incision and a few sutures. This avoids full thickness cornea transplant, is more comfortable for the patient and allows faster recovery.

Getting the right beneficiaries is always a challenge as they need to be eligible, but this time, it all fell in place.

"If the eyes are in good condition, they can be donated to four people. All the beneficiaries are doing well. The white portion of his eyes was sent to a lab, so limbal cells can be grown and used for a patient suffering corneal burns or any other damage, especially with Deepavali here," Dr Shetty added.

The waitlist of beneficiaries was ready and help was taken from Minto Eye Hospital, to get another suitable beneficiary. All are youngsters are from Karnataka and the transplant was performed by a team of five doctors. "The procedure began at 11.30am and ended by 5.30 pm. It is a delicate surgery and was done early so people could benefit," said Dr Yathish Shivanna, Medical Director, Dr Rajkumar Eye Bank.

Dr Sharon D'Souza, senior consultant, Cornea and Refractive, said the Rajkumar family's gesture was heartening. In 1994, Dr Rajkumar lent his name to open the Dr Rajkumar Eye Bank in Narayana Nethralaya.

CHARGES FRAMED AGAINST 17 IN GAURI LANKESH MURDER CASE

Court cites KCOCA judgment to bring charges against accused; next hearing on Dec 8

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A city court has framed charges against 17 accused, who are allegedly involved in the murder of journalist Gauri Lankesh. The next hearing is on December 8, when the trial for the case will be fixed. Though the Special Investigation Team (SIT) had submitted a charge-sheet three years ago, the accused had filed multiple pleas delaying the framing of charges, which is necessary to begin the trial.

However, days after the Supreme Court upheld the Karnataka Control of Organised Crime Act, 2000 against accused Mohan Nayak, the Special Court cited the judgement against the 17 accused.

On Saturday, the accused were produced before the court through video conferencing, from Bengaluru Central Prison, Yerwada Central Prison in Pune, and Arthur Road Prison in Mumbai. The charges were explained to the accused in Marathi and Kannada. They plead not-guilty, and asked for a trial.

The court also directed prison authorities against transferring the accused to another prison, without a specific court order.

Charges against the accused are under sections 302 (murder), 114 (abettor present when offence is committed), 118 (concealing design to commit offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life), 120B (criminal conspiracy), and 35 (when such an act is criminal by reason of its being done with a criminal knowledge or intention) of the IPC, and under the provisions of the Arms Act and the KCOCA.

Gauri's killers should be brought to justice. It's been four years since Gauri was killed. I'm glad that the momentum is picking up. I hope the government sets up a fast-track court for speedy trial. It was a syndicated, organised crime. I had to intervene in the Supreme Court against dropping of KCOCA charges against accused Mohan Nayak. Thankfully, the SC restored the charges. We want adequate punishment for the killers as per law

Kavitha Lankesh, film director and sister

Gauri Lankesh was murdered by gunmen outside her home at Ideal Homes Layout in Rajarajeshwari Nagar on September 5, 2017 night.

ORDER FOR LOCAL BODIES

Hold auction to lease properties: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court said that public auction should be held for leasing buildings, shops, etc., located in the precincts and controlled by municipalities, town panchayats and corporations.

"The court noted that there are a number of municipalities, town panchayats and corporations. They own buildings, shops etc., located in their precincts. There should be uniformity in granting lease. Such uniformity can come about only when there is transparency in procedure, which can come only when the properties are put up for public auction and every citizen is permitted to participate," the court said.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order while noting that the partial auction of buildings or shops by local bodies will defeat the very purpose of the Karnataka Municipalities Act, 1964 Act, Rules, judgments of the high court and the government orders concerning the Panchayat itself which was issued on October 16 2015.

The petitioners have questioned the auction notification dated September 20, 2021 issued by Arkalgud Town Panchayat (ATP) in Hassan district, seeking to auction 61 shops.

Cameroon national denied bail

The High Court declined to grant bail to a citizen of Cameroon, who was arrested by Whitefield police for alleged impersonation and fabrication of documents to justify overstaying in India, on the pretext of the Covid-19 lockdown. The accused is Nkoa Theodore, from Yaounde, Cameroon. "He impersonated a person, produced false documents and stayed in a hotel at Whitefield. Such being the case, if the petitioner is granted bail, he is likely to abscond," Justice K Natarajan said.

Residents of Madhura Nagar area in Kerala had a tough time wading through knee-deep waters on Monday | MADHAV K

The overflown ditches led to the piling up of discarded plastic and waste in the flooded districts. Colonies in the area are facing stench from the drain slush on the road. The local civic body's drain expansion project, to widen the drains was impacted, as the rain submerged the construction materials. The contractor told TNIE that the project will be completed within the next two months.

"It becomes very difficult to shift our belongings to a safe place from getting inundated when rains lash during the late hours," a resident of Madhura Nagar alleged.

According to officials, a total of 896.8 hectares of crops were damaged in B Kodur, Chintakommadinne, Duvvur, Pulivendula and other mandals of the district. A majority of them are horticulture crops and floriculture crops, noted Joint Director (Agriculture) Murali Krishna.

Residents of Dandeli and Joida oppose diversion of Kali river

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @Dandeli

THE residents of Dandeli and Joida have been opposing the ongoing diversion work of the Kali river, which has allegedly been guised as a drinking water project, noting that the entire exercise will be harmful to the river, biodiversity and the people of the region.

On one hand, tourism provides for the livelihood of the locals, as the river is considered ideal for eco-tourism.

Funds are being promised to ramp up the required infrastructure. The Kali Tiger Reserve, with its increasing number of felines and sizable prey base and diversity, is tipped to be amongst the best landscapes in the Sahyadri biosphere.

Ravindra Redkar, 'Kali Brigade fighting for conservation' convenor, and the people here alleged, "There have been huge one metre diameter pipes being dumped in various parts of the taluk. We do not believe that these are drinking water projects. This is aimed at supplying water for industries or for massive scale irrigation projects."

Pramod Sapre, an activist said, "Though the government officials say that the water project is aimed at providing drinking water to Alnavar town, the locals refuse to buy this story because Alnavar hardly has a population of 17,000. They have several water bodies there, which not only caters to their drinking water requirements, but also meets up to their irrigational needs."

Redkar added, "The project itself is unscientific and will drain the river in a few years. These backwaters with the water near Joida have been an eyesore for the people. They believe that there is plenty of water in the river. However, the fact is that these reservoirs have come up submerging 47 villages and the water seen is that the reservoirs must maintain a dead storage level. This river has been dammed at six places."

The 13-year-old used to harass the victim by snatching his books, personal items, and would threaten to beat him up if he didn't comply with his demand. The victim, in fear, stole the money and gave it to the accused.

Joju criticises Cong blockade

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

THE Congress road blockade against the fuel price hike boomeranged on the party, after actor Joju George raised his voice against the archaic mode of protest, that puts the lives of hundreds of motorists in disarray on the busy Vyttila-Palarivattom stretch of NH66 bypass in Kochi, on Monday.

After being caught in the traffic jam for more than two hours, Joju came out of his car and protested the mode of agitation, saying several vehicles including ambulances, and people going to their offices were stuck, and such protests would yield no results.

"I'm not supporting the fuel price hike but no one can tolerate this kind of immature act. It's not possible to sit inside the vehicles without air-conditioning for hours. But, with the current high fuel price, it's not possible keep the AC on for long. After the pandemic, everyone is struggling to earn a livelihood. My humble plea to all political parties is to not organise such modes of agitation. Allow us to live," he said.

Congress workers, on their part, alleged that the actor was drunk and abused woman protesters. Following a scuffle, some protesters vandalised Joju's vehicle, a Land Rover Defender, and broke the rear windshield.

The police took the actor to Maradu police station and then to Tripunithura Taluk Hospital for a medical check, where it was found that he was not under the influence of alcohol.

HYD LOCALS COMPLAIN TO NHRC OVER INDUSTRIAL POLLUTION

DONITA JOSE @ Hyderabad

THE residents of Choutuppal and Pochamapally near Hyderabad, are living through a nightmare. They have no respite from the excessive pollution caused by pharmaceutical companies. As per their complaint to the National Human Rights Commission, eight companies release chemical fluids into their localities. The National Green Tribunal's order asking the Pollution Control Board to reign in the companies, has not been implemented.

"The earth is becoming barren, devoid of any greenery. Nearly 2,000 acres of land in these two mandals are affected by the effluents spread over 70 acres. The chemicals which are mixing with water is making livestock and farm animals die. The PCB and revenue officials have been informed about the illegal discharge of chemical waste, but they are not taking any action. Just three months ago, the Yadadri District Collector gave compensation to the damages caused by the pollution to the tune of Rs 3,200 per acre," said Narender Reddy, a farmer and localite.

The residents, in their letter to NHRC, are demanding better compensation for the loss they have incurred, and also want efforts to provide alternative sources of income and employment to the villagers who have lost their livelihood. Despite repeated attempts, the TS Pollution control Board officials could not be reached.

DEEPAVALI MUST BE ABOUT LIGHTS, NOT SOUND AND SMOKE

It's that time of the year. Deepavali is around the corner and that old debate is back with us: firecrackers, to burst or not to burst. Except for Puducherry, which has actually subsidised firecrackers, most states have either put a blanket ban (like Delhi, West Bengal and 14 districts of Haryana) or brought in heavy restrictions. Though Mumbai also features prominently in IQAir's list of the world's most polluted cities, Maharashtra has chosen to restrict only the sound pollution aspect. Uttar Pradesh, like Karnataka, Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh, has allowed the sale of 'green crackers'. The air we breathe is already so very polluted—to the point of reaching hazardous levels—that concessions of any sort appear to be a misadventure. The difference between a 'green cracker' and regular cracker is just that the latter uses sodium, copper, barium, calcium, strontium and lithium, all dangerous pollutants, whereas the former is only 30% less polluting as the use of lead, arsenic and barium is banned now. Whether it is Deepavali or Chhat puja, Christmas or New Year, bursting firecrackers is actually not integral to any festival. There's of course another side to it too. Bans and restrictions badly impact the firecracker industry, once a ₹2,500 crore worth market that ought to be naturally buzzing around this time, its peak season. After continuous years of bans/restrictions, it claims to be unable to spend to shift to a cleaner product. Also, firecracker units are notorious for employing child labour, with little investment in safety measures. It is, therefore, upon the governments to find alternative livelihood avenues for these ad hoc manufacturers of toxic firecrackers, and of course schools for the children. Deepavali is a festival of lights, not of sound and smoke. Perhaps it is time we eradicate the darkness below the lamp and find the light of wisdom within ourselves.

SECOND INNINGS FOR RBI GOVERNOR

The reappointment of RBI governor Shaktikanta Das by three years—which would make him the second-longest serving governor in the regulator's history if he were to complete the term—has drawn mixed responses. While a section of the people has welcomed the extension, given he managed to smoothly sail through a tumultuous period—marked by post-demonetisation economic slowdown and pandemic induced recession—of central bank policymaking, others have called it a quid pro quo for Das totally toeing the government line.

Ever since Das assumed office in December 2018, the RBI has reduced policy rates by 250 basis points. His two predecessors—Raghuram Rajan and Urjit Patel—were believed to be a little too conservative (for the government's liking) when it came to cutting interest rates. The Monetary Policy Committee led by Das has also kept the liquidity tap on for quite some time, making the system flush with enough money that had driven the unexpected 'bull run' in Indian stock markets, as well as kept the start-up ecosystem vibrant with funding coming from every nook and cranny. Of course, one cannot cast aspersions on Das for his policies that promoted easy liquidity since it was a worldwide phenomenon. But his biggest contribution was helping the Central government cope with severe fiscal distress, when the RBI made a record payout of ₹1.76 lakh crore in 2019-20 and ₹99,000 crore payout in the current financial year. Even in the pandemic year of 2020-21, the RBI paid a dividend of ₹57,000 crore. Das, unlike his predecessors, adopted a non-adversarial attitude towards the executive, something that comes easy to a seasoned bureaucrat like him. He concurred with the government on an easy monetary policy and managed to bring peace in the relationship between the central bank and the Centre.

While Das can be blamed for compromising the self-righteous standards of the RBI, he did steady the ship that was caught in turbulence, steered himself clear of any unnecessary controversies and quietly performed his duties. Aside from the questions of ethics, one cannot blame the government for rewarding Das with an extension given he has lived up to its expectation.

Conversations without expectations of immediate outcomes must commence, as a ham-handed response by India plays directly into the hands of the sponsors

FINDING CLARITY IN A COMPLEX SECURITY SCENARIO IN J&K

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps. Now Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

SOUMYADIP SINHA

On Pakistan's fake 'Victory Day', 6 Sep 2021, its Army Chief General Qamar Bajwa boasted of Pakistan's victory in the September 1965 Indo-Pak conflict. He then added, without naming India, that Pakistan would win the 5th generation hybrid war too. He of course did not mention that Pakistan intended to re-energise the ongoing proxy hybrid conflict against India to a higher-level within a month itself, given the fact that the Afghanistan front has stabilised and the winter was approaching in J&K. With the range of activities seen in J&K through October 2021, along with the Pakistani deep state's attempts to use unconventional ways of destabilising India, General Bajwa has been true to his word about the intent and the previous month has seen another gambit by Pakistan.

What exactly is fifth generation hybrid war? There is no universally accepted definition of hybrid war itself. Usually a combination of conventional and irregular methods of war is the broadest understanding. Methods and tactics may include conventional capabilities, irregular tactics and formations, diplomacy, politics, terrorist acts, indiscriminate violence, criminal activity and anything that can adversely affect the security status of the opposing party or state. The manpower for this could be state, non-state, or state-sponsored non-state. Once again, fifth generation hybrid war finds no definition but the ambit of hybrid war fought with the exploitation of all modern technological means of the information domain that extends to psychological and media propaganda and of late political warfare, is the larger understanding. Consensus is difficult on definitions but much easier on application. Pakistan has fought a hybrid war campaign in J&K for the last 30 years. For the last two years and a little more, its ability to pursue that path had become difficult after India decided on a strong clampdown on violence in the Valley and a recourse to constitutional decisions on J&K's status. Its success in Afghanistan has emboldened Pakistan and this October offered some opportunities that Islamabad has manoeuvred to exploit to the hilt.

One of the most important things regarding rekindling the turbulence in J&K is to recreate among the people an empathy towards the Pakistan narrative and neutralisation of all Indian efforts at outreach to the people. Some of this flows naturally from the Taliban victory and Pakistan's deep involvement there. The direct trigger to change the discourse of the improving security situation has been the minority and migrant targeting. Fence sitters in Kashmir start gravitating away from India whenever such acts occur. The hard response by Indian authorities involving detention of youth and interrogations is never helpful and the gains of a few months of positive outreach are probably negated by this. But that is the response expected by Pakistan and it works to promote that.

Simultaneously, efforts have been afoot to enhance terrorist strength through a relatively safer area as compared to the zone of Kashmir's counter infiltration grid. In its wisdom, Pakistan has chosen to revisit a strategy of the past: a concentration of foreign fighters and caches of weapons and wherewithal. The Pir Panjal acts as a midway point between the Jammu and Kashmir regions, and the selected area of concentration appears to be somewhat similar to Hilkaka, a pasture with nomadic hutments, which saw much action for almost three months in 2003. This concentration could also provide a clandestine training area for local recruits. It seems obvious that the reserves of terrorists would be held in such a location awaiting launch into a situation where expansion of terrorist activities could be swift without awaiting infiltration. Even if this preparation for concentration was discovered early, it would draw the Indian Army into large scale operations in an area which had been relatively quiet for some years. That activation itself would probably be considered a success by Pakistan since the areas south of Pir Panjal have been without action for long.

> One of the most important things for Pakistan regarding rekindling the turbulence in J&K is to recreate among the people an empathy towards its narrative and neutralisation of all Indian efforts at outreach to the people

The means for the fifth generation hybrid war would probably have been the subject of research for some time. The Inter Services Public Relations (ISPR) wing of the Pakistan Armed Forces would have been tasked to draw up the means of execution of a program involving various resources of strategic communication. With political warfare the new mantra in the world of hybrid warfare, the intent has been to push the latter towards yet another new phenomenon called gray zone war that too defies definitions but may broadly be considered as something with the purpose of creating intense political turbulence. The alleged Russian efforts towards influencing the US political scenario could be deemed as an element of gray zone war. The social and political environment in India is in flux and exploitable particularly in a pre-electoral scenario. The Delhi riots of early 2020 is considered by many analysts as another attempt at the gray zone war. The communal situation in India and the T20 World Cup match between India and Pakistan in combination offered much scope to Pakistan, in conjunction with all other forms of political and social tension; the Poonch terrorist concentration has obviously been both a fallback and a supplementary. Networked strategic communication was probably used to create short term sub-narratives such as targeting Mohammed Shami and expression of pro-Pakistan sentiments to create further negativity. This confounds an already complex security environment in J&K which threatens to go beyond. Finding clarity through this is a major challenge and a ham-handed response plays directly into the hands of the sponsors who await exactly that before tweaking the further strategy.

Response is the biggest challenge for India and it's easy to recommend clichéd ways such as 'all of nation approach'. Home Minister Amit Shah's visit to J&K and the attitude displayed by him with different segments of society provides an indicator of how this needs to be dealt with. Arrests, detentions and the like may prove counterproductive. Conversations without expectations of immediate outcomes must commence even as the security forces ensure that the kinetic space is not allowed to be breached. Results may not be achieved in the Poonch operations either but a stricter surveillance against any further buildup of strength must continue. However, most importantly we must look at the conceptual aspects of countering the gray zone vulnerability which is making Pakistan so confident of employing fifth generation hybrid war as a tool against India.

MENTAL HEALTH VS WORLD MENTAL HEALTH DAY

DR DEBANJAN BANERJEE

Consultant old-age psychiatrist, Kolkata

Yet another World Mental Health Day (WMHD) passed by this October 10, yet another flurry of social media invites, seminars (sorry, webinars), people competing with each other in an attempt to spread fast awareness, media turning its attention towards the human psyche for a change and a global bonanza for a single-day take of mental health and wellbeing. And not to mention, this year, the WMHD celebrations successfully aligned with our other festivities like Navratri and Durga Puja as well.

The transition from virtual to hybrid has been smooth and as Covid fades from our memories, get-togethers for mental health day will surely carve a big smile on all our faces. All of a sudden, it's a changed world; this month, everyone will eat, drink, sleep and speak 'mental health'. Not to mention, every single medical association and medical college will be flooded with posters, photography, short film contests, and whatnot. And lastly, the awareness runs! Every time it reminds me of the classical comeback from my all-time favourite, Forrest Gump: "Are you running for world peace?", to which Gump bluntly replies, "No, I just felt like running".

Well, isn't this as a community what we always wanted? Mental health for all, by all? Yet, under all this overwhelming extravaganza surrounding mental health centred around this annual festivity, there is an ominous darkness looming. We have too many "days" in a year. Is this just another such day?

World Mental Health Day, on October 10, is an international day for global mental health education, awareness and advocacy against social stigma. It was first celebrated in 1992 at the initiative of the World Federation for Mental Health (WFMH), a global organisation with members and contacts in more than 150 countries. Until 1994, the day had no specific theme other than promoting mental health advocacy and educating the public. In 1994, it was celebrated with a theme for the first time at the suggestion of the then Secretary General Eugene Brody. The theme was "Improving the Quality of Mental Health Services throughout the World".

It is also supported by the WHO through raising awareness on mental health issues using its strong relationships with the ministries of health and civil society organisations across the globe. The day provides an opportunity for all stakeholders working on mental health issues to talk about their work and what more needs to be done to make mental healthcare a reality for people worldwide.

This year's theme was "Mental health in an unequal world". We are expected to spread this message far and wide. But where is the missing link? One of my senior teachers in medical school once told me, "Ask anyone about mental health, what they understand is the disorder, but not mental well-being."

While knowledge actually helps change our attitudes towards mental health and enables us to communicate better, where are we disseminating it? This festival that we celebrate for a day, week or month definitely adds length to our CVs and the public engages in them with fun and frolic just like the preceding Ganesh Chaturthi, Durga Puja, Eid or Christmas. And, with the short-term memory that we cherish, as soon as the mental health day or month ends, the field of psychiatry, individuals living with mental illness and people treating them get overshadowed by the thick cloud of stigma, misconceptions, misinformation and prejudice that are all-pervasive in our society. Once again, we sensationalise suicides, isolate people with psychiatric illnesses, label psychiatrists as shrinks and display mental health as a distorted, Kafkaesque entity in books and movies. And why not? In this world of globalisation, mental health indeed sells well, so corporate use of it is rampant while the masses who really need help stay marginalised and without dignity.

> As soon as the mental health day or month ends, the field of psychiatry, individuals living with mental illness and people treating them get overshadowed by stigma, misconceptions, misinformation and prejudice that are all-pervasive in our society

Am I against a day? Of course not! I just have concerns with the process. Awareness days throughout the year are observed by global health agencies for a reason, to have a context for what we preach. This context is lost in all the cacophony and glamourisation of the event.

Amidst all the buzz, where are the voices of those who live with mental illness, who are socially impoverished, who are in need for mental healthcare, the physicians who work in remote areas for patient education, the families and caregivers of people who have been suffering from severe mental disorders from years, the vulnerable sectors of population (children, older people, sexual and ethnic minorities, etc.) and the young people from schools/colleges who need to be sensitised to the importance of mental wellbeing right from the early years? These voices are unheard and invisible.

Why do we need a celebrity or a prominent public figure to spell out the importance of mental health for us? Why do we need social media outrage to realise that our mind is as important as our body?

Empathy, compassion, togetherness, humanity, modesty and ethics are concepts that are intricately linked to our self-esteem and emotional health. Unfortunately, these cannot be dealt with through webinars, conferences, runs, posters, photography, etc. Charity begins at home, and it's high time we turn back to our conscience to ask if we are concerned about mental health or are more obsessed with the 'day'.

If we really believe in the global vision by the WHO and WFMH, let us help foster equality in mental healthcare in our community by lending a conscious hand all throughout, transcending beyond a day and beyond these plethora of celebrations.

Bring back winning spirit

The Indian cricket team's defeat on Sunday against New Zealand was highly disappointing for all the fans of the sport. The Men in Blue need to now start playing with an attacking strategy. They must bring back their enthusiasm and winning spirit to defeat the remaining three teams in group B so that they still have a chance to advance in the T20 World Cup. The boys should keep in mind that while Kapil Dev's team in 1983 barely made it to the semi-finals of the Prudential World Cup, it still walked away with the trophy.

T Kailash Ditya, Hyderabad

Select players carefully

The defeat against New Zealand has badly affected India's chances of qualifying for the semi-finals. We cannot totally blame the players as the toss is vital for them to play calmly without pressure. But the BCCI and captain Virat Kohli should also be careful in selecting players and include good spinners like Ravichandran Ashwin.

V K S Krishnan, Kumbakonam

Back-to-back losses

India lost its first match against Pakistan on October 26 and its second match against New Zealand on Sunday. We have changed our players and the order of the batting lineup, yet the results remained the same. Our players are talented and physically fit, but they seem to be mentally exhausted. They have to work towards strengthening their mind and spirit to win the game.

Cong a non-entity in Goa

This is with reference to Congress ceding opposition space in poll-bound Goa (Nov 1). The Congress in Goa has become a virtual non-entity. The state is now up for grabs for all parties, among which the BJP seems to have consolidated its position. It will be a tall order for the AAP and TMC to establish themselves there as, like the Congress has said, Goans may not relish the idea of a renegade local leader extending support to outsiders like Mamata Banerjee and Arvind Kejriwal.

Women should revolt

This is with reference to Weep for the women in Afghanistan (Oct 31). The article has highlighted the state-sponsored atrocities being committed on women. One hopes that the women are able to lead a revolution big enough to liberate Afghanistan from the shackles of the Taliban.

Fraudulent packages

A person who ordered an Apple iPhone 12 on Amazon received a bar of soap and a ₹5 coin. This comes a month after an engineering student received a package stuffed with old newspapers instead of the high-end laptop ordered through the same e-commerce giant. Authorities need to stringently monitor the functioning of such sites to limit fraud.

Cannot impose blanket ban on firecrackers: SC

Sets aside Calcutta HC order, asserts less polluting crackers can be used for festivity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday set aside the order of the Calcutta High Court which imposed a complete ban of use of firecrackers in West Bengal.

"We are convinced that Calcutta High Court should have called upon parties to give explanation before passing such an extreme order," the bench headed by Justice A M Khanwilkar observed, adding that the High Court ought to have given opportunities to the authorities to place on record if any mechanism was in place to ensure that only green crackers, as permitted by the Supreme Court, are being used.

Representing Bengal, senior counsel Anand Grover submitted that the government was taking action pursuant to the top court's order against persons found violating the directions.

While setting aside the High Court's order, the Supreme Court also gave liberty to any party to approach the High Court with adequate material.

"For the time being, we only reiterate the position recorded in the order of the Supreme Court on October 29. Additionally, the State of West Bengal will explore the possibility of ensuing that no banned materials are imported. The mechanism may be strengthened," the Supreme Court said in the order.

The apex court was hearing the challenge to the order of the Calcutta High Court banning the use of firecrackers in West Bengal during upcoming festivities of Kali Puja, Diwali, Chhath, Jagadhatri Puja, Guru Nanak Jayanti, Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

"The State should ensure that there is no use or display or bursting of firecrackers of any type at all during the oncoming Kali Puja, Diwali celebration as well as the following Chhath Puja, Jagadhatri Puja, Guru Nanak's Birthday and/or Christmas/New Year's Eve this year. For such purpose, only wax or oil-based diyas might be used," the order had stated.

Akhilesh Ali Jinnah: BJP's swipe at SP president

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Lucknow

SAMAJWADI Party chief Akhilesh Yadav has kicked up a political row by equating Pakistan founder Muhammad Ali Jinnah with India's freedom struggle luminaries Mahatma Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru and Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel.

He came under a scathing attack from Uttar Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath as well as AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi for mentioning Gandhi, Patel, Nehru and Jinnah in the same breath. All four of them "studied at the same institution, became barristers and fought for the country's freedom", he said at a rally to mark Sardar Patel's birth anniversary in Hardoi district on Sunday.

Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav mingles with the crowds during a poll rally on Monday | SP TWITTER HANDLE

The BJP accused him of "Muslim appeasement" with an eye on elections while CM Yogi said it exposed his "Talibani mindset". Deputy CM Keshav Prasad Maurya termed Yadav's statement as cheap politics aimed at appeasing a certain section of voters. "He has not only insulted the souls of countless lives sacrificed during the Partition, but also disrespected the Iron Man Patel, who integrated the country, while Jinnah is known for dividing India. Now calling Akhilesh Yadav as Akhilesh Ali Jinnah and his Samajwadi Party as Jinnahwadi Party won't be wrong."

Owaisi had a word of caution for the SP leader. "Akhilesh Yadav should understand that Indian Muslims have nothing to do with Jinnah. Our elders rejected the two-nation theory and chose India as their country."

BSP supremo Mayawati lambasted Yadav as well as the BJP. "Akhilesh Yadav's statement on Jinnah and the ruling BJP jumping to react on it is reflective that both these parties are colluding just to vitiate the atmosphere during polls on Hindu-Muslim lines."

Political analysts said Yadav's remark could be an attempt to polarise the Muslim votes in his favour, given that the Muslim-Yadav had helped his father come to power several times in UP, including 2012. "He knows that other opposition parties, including a resurgent Congress, will eat into the minority votes which hold the key to success in 120-plus seats," an ex- SP leader said.

Meanwhile, Akhilesh reportedly said he won't contest the assembly polls.

Rawat calls for 20% tickets to ex-servicemen

Dehradun: Former chief minister Harish Rawat said he was all for allocating 20% quota of Congress poll tickets to retired personnel from armed forces. "In the upcoming elections, Congress party will prefer ex-personnel in atleast 14 seats. After we form government, a committee will be formed to look into the matters of our ex-servicemen. Taking care of concerns of the soldiers and guarding their honour is the duty of the Congress party," said Rawat. The step is said to be a counter move to tackle the ruling BJP's narrative of presenting itself as a well-wisher of the forces. The BJP has been building up momentum by presenting CM Pushkar Singh Dhami as 'a son of a soldier' in service of Uttarakhand. The AAP has also selected a retired Army officer as CM candidate. ENS

Electoral roll, vax on focus of panels

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH the Winter session of Parliament likely to begin later this month, the reconstituted Parliamentary panels have begun picking up issues for deliberations. The standing committee on law and justice is set to examine the feasibility of remote voting while the panel on health taking up Covid vaccinations and the implementation of Ayushman Bharat.

The BJP MP Sushil Kumar Modi headed panel on personnel, public grievances, law and justice has taken up the issues of remote voting, Aadhar seeding of voter cards and common electoral roll for all elections for deliberations in which the cross-sections of officials and stakeholders would be called in for briefings.

The panel on health and family welfare will be examining the issues of vaccine development, distribution management for deliberations in the next few weeks. It will also deliberate on the implementation of the Ayushman Bharat, along with mental health in contemporary times, said the Lok Sabha secretariat on Monday. It has also chosen the issues related to medical devices, regulation and control, along with affordability of cancer treatment. The panel will also examine issues related to the Ministry of Ayush, including the National Ayush Mission, which will deliberate on the scope and feasibility of alternative healthcare in the country.

On electoral reforms, the EC officials were asked to appear for discussion on scope of doing away with the multiplicity of voter cards. The remote voting, which is apparently being demanded by a number of stakeholders, to address the issue of the migrants from missing out of the electoral process due to their work in different places. The panel will explore the scope of allowing the people to take part in the electoral process from the places of their works, said a senior official. It will also seek inputs from the EC officials on the feasibility of a common electoral roll for the Lok Sabha, Assembly and Panchayat elections.

'DABUR AD JUNKED DUE TO PUBLIC INTOLERANCE'

NEW DELHI: Supreme Court judge DY Chandrachud has expressed anguish over the withdrawal of a 'Karva Chhauth' advertisement featuring a same-sex couple due to "public intolerance," saying there is a need to change the mindset of both men and women.

The judge was referring to the advertisement of on Karva Chhauth, a Hindu festival in which wives keep a day-long fast and perform puja for the well-being of their husbands.

The advertisement, showing a women couple celebrating the festival, was withdrawn after facing backlash on social media and from a politician of Madhya Pradesh.

"Just two days ago, all of you would know, of this advertisement which a company was required to pull down. It was an advertisement for Karva Chauth of a same-sex couple. It had to be withdrawn on the ground of public intolerance," Justice Chandrachud said at the launch of the nationwide legal awareness programme, 'Empowerment of Women through legal awareness' at Varanasi on Saturday.

Justice Chandrachud said that awareness about the rights of women could truly be meaningful if it is created among the younger generation of men. "Awareness is not only a woman's issue. I believe that the deprivation of rights of women if we have to find an answer to them, the origin must be in the changing of mindset, both of men and women. True freedom for women, in other words, is truly intersectional," he remarked.

There are real-life situations that show that there is a great divergence between ideals of the law and the real state of society, the judge said. Even though legislations like the domestic violence act, prevention of sexual harassment at the workplace act have been enacted to achieve the goal of fulfilling the constitutional rights of women, the judges come across injustice against women every day, he remarked.

Justice Chandrachud stated that the entitlements which the law has created for women should not become a ruse or an excuse for perpetuating the domination of men.

The Supreme Court judge said the Constitution of India is a transformative document that seeks to remedy the structural inequalities rooted in patriarchy.

"It has become a powerful tool to secure material entitlements and provide public affirmations of dignity and equality of women," he added. PTI

Four get death for blasts at Modi's Patna rally

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Patna

FOUR of the nine people convicted in the 2013 Patna serial blasts were handed death sentence by a special NIA court in the Bihar capital on Monday.

While two others were sent to life imprisonment, another two got 10-year jail term and the ninth convict got seven-year imprisonment for the bomb explosions at the BJP's rally which was addressed by the then chief minister of Gujarat, Narendra Modi.

Six persons were killed and 89 others were injured in the blasts. No terrorist outfit had claimed responsibility but the role of banned outfits SIMI and Indian Mujahideen were suspected in the blasts.

Special NIA judge Gurvinder Mehrotra pronounced death sentences to Haider Ali (the mastermind of the blasts), Noman Ansari, Mujibullah Ansari and Imtiyaz Alam.

The judge had earlier on October 27 held nine out of ten accused guilty and acquitted the tenth accused, Fakruddin, for lack of evidence.

After its probe, the NIA had filed a charge sheet on March 24, 2014 against one accused and a supplementary one on August 22 that year against 10 accused. One of the accused charge-sheeted as a juvenile was already convicted by the Juvenile Justice Board in Patna.

As per the NIA statement, an explosion was triggered at Patna junction in which seven persons were injured and one accused identified as Tariq Ajam had died of serious injuries under treatment. He was caught alive by the RPF personnel at the junction.

Six explosions had taken place at Patna's historic Gandhi Maidan between 11.45 am and 12 45 pm where the Hunkar Rally was held by the BJP.

TARGETING GOVT

Congress digital drive for membership begins

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Congress on Monday launched a membership drive ahead of the organisational elections but it was primarily limited to the launch of the online campaign 'Save India, Join Congress' targeting Modi government's policy.

The party, meanwhile, is yet to take a final call on the actual mode of membership drive. It has been wary of the new digital system in the wake of botched experiment with 'Shakti App' in Lok Sabha elections in 2019.

The AICC in charges of respective states attended the launch at the party headquarters which mainly turned out to be a photo opportunity. Former Congress chief Rahul Gandhi and general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, who otherwise were active on social media platforms, did not even issue any appeal through their social media handles.

"Today's event mainly focused on campaigning and going public about the launch of the membership drive but the party is yet to decide if the entire drive will be manual or digital. The state units as of now are issuing manual registration slips to new members," said a senior Congress leader.

The party is working on a foolproof digital membership drive starting November 1 to March 31, 2022, before the organisational elections. But a word of caution came from Priyanka who had flagged bogus membership issues during the meetings of general secretaries, state in charges and leaders chaired by Congress chief Sonia Gandhi to discuss the membership drive among other issues.

HYD BOY AMONG 3 NEET TOPPERS

Regulator proposes 10-year cap to finish MBBS course

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THREE students, including a girl, topped the National Eligibility cum Entrance Examination (NEET) for undergrads this year, as they scored a perfect 720 on 720. The National Testing Agency (NTA), which conducts the exam, declared the results on Monday.

The three students are Mrinal Kutteri from Hyderabad, Tanmay Gupta from Delhi and Karthika G Nair from Maharashtra. A tie-breaking formula may be used at the counselling stage for these three candidates, said officials.

Also, as many as 12 students were ranked at the fifth position. A record 16.14 lakh had enrolled for the exam that was held on September 12. Over 95% of the registered candidates took the test. NEET this year was conducted in 13 languages with Malayalam and Punjabi being additions to the list of regional languages.

A total of 21 girls — or a little over one-third, four of them from Maharashtra alone — feature among the 60 top rank holders this year.

Announcing the results, the NTA said that 15 candidates were found using unfair practices in the exam because of which their results have been cancelled.

The Directorate General of Health Services will conduct the counselling for 15% all India quota (AIQ) seats, deemed universities, central universities, seats of ESIC and AFMC, BHU & AMU.

For state quota and other seats falling under the ambit of states, candidates will be required to apply to their domicile states and merit list as per state rules and based on all India rank will be prepared by concerned counselling authorities.

Counselling for private medical colleges will also be conducted by the concerned state counselling authority.

It has been open-ended till now

At present, once candidates get into MBBS through the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET), there is no year limit to complete the basic degree

Aruna V Vanikar, president of the undergraduate medical education board at the NMC, told this newspaper that the proposal is part of the draft on the National Exit Test (NEXT) that is being sent to the Union health ministry for approval. NEXT is the final year national level MBBS exam that will also be used for scoring students for PG courses in medicine. It is set to be held from 2023.

"Though it is not a regular feature that medicos take very long to complete their degrees, there are many instances across India like this, which include foreign medical graduates as well," said Vanikar. "Some universities even allow students to drop years and resume later after a gap."

"The duration of MBBS course without internship is 4.5 years, so under no circumstance should a candidate take more than 10 years to complete the degree," said Vanikar. This will also mean that the regulator will not fix an age cap for candidates. Anyone who takes admission at any age can pursue the course within the specified period of time. The minimum age to take admission in MBBS, however, is 17 years.

Char Dham priests up the ante before PM's visit

Say won't allow VIPs unless row over Devasthanam Act resolved

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

AHEAD of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's scheduled visit on November 5 to Kedarnath, priests have warned that they will not allow "any VIP" unless the matter of Char Dham Devasthanam Board Act is resolved.

Brijesh Sati, spokesperson for the Char Dham Tirth Purohit Mahapanchayat, the apex body of the priests of Char Dham said, "We have decided to oppose the visit of VIPs until a solution is found."

In December 2019, the state Assembly had passed a bill relating to the management of Char Dham. The priests had then opposed the law saying it would rob them of their 'haq-hukuk' (traditional rights).

The Kedarnath priests also protested during former CM Trivendra Singh Rawat's visit on Monday. He was supposed to take stock of the preparations ahead of the PM's visit and was accompanied by state protocol minister Dhan Singh Rawat and state BJP chief Madan Kaushik. However, the former CM had to leave hurriedly without 'darshan' following protests.

'Will rob them of right'
The Devasthanam Board Act was cleared during Trivendra Singh Rawat's tenure. The priests had then opposed the law saying it would rob them of their 'haq-hukuk' (traditional rights)

Santosh Trivedi, a priest who led the protests, said: "The government has cheated us. They had sought time until October 30. Agitations have started across all Char Dham shrines."

The Char Dham Devasthanam Management Board Act was cleared during Trivendra Singh Rawat's tenure. The priests showed black flags and shouted slogans against the former CM and others as soon as they landed. Markets at Yamunotri and Gangotri shrines remained closed in expression of solidarity with the agitating priests.

CM Pushkar Singh Dhami said the government has formed a committee to resolve the issue. "Once the committee submits the final report, we will make a decision."

Recently, Rajya Sabha MP Anil Baluni had met a delegation of priests and assured them of a solution.

The PM's visit to Kedanath a day after Diwali will be his second trip to Uttarakhand this month. He will also inaugurate projects worth ₹400 crore.

'Govt has time till Nov 26 to repeal laws'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

BHARATIYA Kisan Union leader Rakesh Tikait on Monday put the Centre on notice saying if the Union government doesn't repeal the three contentious farm laws by November 26, farmers will reach the border areas around Delhi on tractors and strengthen the tents at the protest site with solid fortifications.

Rakesh Tikait

November 26 will mark one of year of the farm agitation, which started on November 25 last year when thousands of farmers from Punjab and Haryana marched towards Delhi demanding a repeal of the legislations.

Tikait's ultimatum comes amid speculation that the BJP may soften the farm laws at the instance of former Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh, with whom the saffron party hopes to ally in the upcoming Assembly polls in the state. If a solution to the vexatious issue is arrived at, Tikait, who enjoys immense clout among the Jats, wouldn't want the 'credit' to be bestowed on Amarinder.

Tikait is already under pressure after the Supreme Court recently said that farmers have the right to protest but they can't block roads indefinitely.

Hundreds of farmers have been camping at Delhi borders since last year demanding repeal of the Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act, 2020; Farmers' (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, 2020; and the Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act, 2020. They are also demanding a new law to guarantee the minimum support price for crops.

Fadnavis says Malik has link with Dawood

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

NCP spokesperson and Maharashtra minister Nawab Malik on Monday alleged that former chief minister Devendra Fadnavis and his wife had links with a drug peddler arrested by the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) in June in Delhi.

Tweeting a photo of Amruta and Devendra Fadnavis with the alleged peddler, Jaideep Rana, Malik tweeted, "Let's have a discussion of links between BJP and drug peddler." Rana, he alleged, financed a video album of Amruta Fadnavis.

Hitting back, Fadnavis claimed Malik had connection with underworld don Dawood Ibrahim and threatened to expose the link after Diwali. The "cracker" burst by Malik before Diwali was a damp squib, the BJP leader said, and threatened to explode a 'bomb' after the festival. He said he would meet NCP chief Sharad Pawar and hand over the evidence of Malik's underworld links.

Responding to the minister's allegations, Fadnavis said, "The pictures were clicked during the shooting of a theme song. There are photos along with the team, not only with my wife, but also with me. But, Nawab Malik consciously shared the photograph of my wife. This reflects his mentality."

The people who had been photographed were brought by River March, an organization working for river rejuvenation, a cause he is associated with, Fadnavis claimed. "There are no links of these people with me or my wife," he asserted.

Amruta Fadnavis termed Malik's allegations as baseless and "low level of politics".

Anil Deshmukh appears before ED in money laundering case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

FORMER Maharashtra home minister Anil Deshmukh appeared before the Enforcement Directorate on Monday for questioning in a money laundering case registered against him and others.

Anil Deshmukh, who skipped five ED summons in the past, arrived at the ED office at Ballard Estate in Mumbai around 11:40 AM accompanied by his lawyer and his associates. Deshmukh, 71, appeared before the agency after the Bombay High Court last week refused to quash these summons.

Officials said the federal probe agency will record the statement of the NCP leader under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) in connection with the criminal investigation being carried out by it in the alleged ₹100 crore bribery-cum-extortion racket in the Maharashtra Police establishment that led to Deshmukh's resignation in April.

The questioning and recording of statements are expected to be long as officials said Deshmukh was 'key' to the case.

Sidhu has his way, Punjab advocate general quits

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

AMIDST the tussle between Punjab Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi and Punjab Congress President Navjot Singh Sidhu over the appointment of Advocate General of Punjab Amar Preet Singh Deol and Punjab DGP Iqbal Preet Singh Sahota, just after over a month of his appointment as AG, Deol today resigned.

Sources said that Deol today resigned from the post of Advocate General of Punjab and handed over his resignation to Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi. On September 27, Deol was appointed after the post fell vacant following Atul Nanda's resignation soon after Capt Amarinder Singh stepped down as chief minister. But his resignation is yet to be accepted by the government. From the beginning there has been controversy over his appointment as he had remained the counsel of former Punjab DGP Sumedh Singh Saini and suspended IGP Paramraj Singh Umaranangal, both accused in the Behbal Kalan police firing case.

It had led to a legal debate on the issue of conflict of interest primarily on the grounds that Deol was counsel of Saini and Umaranangal and thus would not be able to appear nor advise the state in their cases related to Behbal Kalan police firing and sacrilege.

DOMESTIC POWER TARIFF SLASHED
Punjab cabinet announced decided to slash power tariff in the state by `3 per unit for domestic consumers, which will put a burden of `3,316 crore per year on the state exchequer. Intended as a Diwali gift, the decision comes ahead of next year's assembly polls. After the state cabinet meeting today, Punjab Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi said, "The cabinet decided to reduce the power tariff to domestic sector consumers having connected load upto 7 KW by `3 per unit." Channi claimed that this decision follows a survey conducted by his government, where it was found people wanted better quality and cheaper electricity. He said that the first 100 units of power will be charged at `1.19 per unit. Consumption between 100 and 300 units will be billed at `4 per unit. Over 300 units, it has been fixed at `5.76 per unit. "The power tariff in Punjab will be the cheapest in the country,' he said.

Climate change suspect in Kameng 'glacial' disaster

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

A major environmental disaster is perhaps in the making in Arunachal Pradesh as a river system in the state has come to a virtual standstill following massive landslides and mudslides in the upper reaches.

They dumped millions of tonnes of mud and rocks into Kameng, substantially reducing the river's flow. Its water in East Kameng district has become like a muddy swamp instead of a raging river.

Kameng originates in East Kameng district and is a tributary of the Brahmaputra.

East Kameng District Magistrate, Pravimal Abhishek Polumatla said during an analysis and testing of the water at various locations, the district authorities found the total dissolved substance in the river to be very high and the dissolved oxygen to be very low. He said this could be the reason behind the deaths of a lot of fish and other aquatic animals.

A man shows a handful of mud from the Kameng river; (inset) a dead fish | EXPRESS

"Four days on and the situation remains the same. Levels of turbidity and oxygen are nearly the same due to mud flow. Prima facie, our understanding is that this is due to landslides in the upper reaches of the river," Polumatla said.

He said as the actual cause could be ascertained through satellite imagery or aerial survey, the state government was urged to help the administration get access to satellite imageries or deploy the officials of State Remote Sensing Agency to do that part.

Environmentalist and a coordinator of South Asia Network on Dams, Rivers and People, Himanshu Thakkar told this newspaper that satellite images had shown the incident was caused by landslides originating in one of the tributaries of Kameng which is a glacial tributary.

There are also glacial lakes there. This is the likely cause as of now behind this incident, he said. "Snowfall in the higher reaches along with rain could have triggered the landslides or glacial-like outburst," Thakkar said. The glacial area also has a lot of moraine debris. So, when there is a landslide or glacial-like outburst, a lot of debris flows down, he said.

No scope for bravado, says Sajjad Lone on J&K leaders' attack on Centre

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

PEOPLES Conference chairman Sajjad Lone on Monday accused some J&K leaders of attempting to incite and goad the Central government to act harshly against people of Kashmir and creating an enabling environment for further victimisation of Kashmiris and asserted that there was no scope for further bravado.

"The situation in J&K is unambiguously extraordinary. People are in pain and there is helplessness all around. The process of disempowerment started on August 5 refuses to abate. To compound the problems further, there is an alien administration which has nothing in common with J&K people," Lone, a former minister from BJP quota in PDP-BJP coalition government, said while presiding over the party's Central Working Committee (CWC) meeting.

The party leadership in these challenging times, he said, should rise up to the occasion and rescuing Kashmiris instead of feeding them to lions.

"Confrontation ends up with a victim and a victor. Our simple question to those who are keen on a new round of confrontation is that from where the new victims will arise. Will it be from the political elite, will it be from their families or will it be as per tradition a poor man's son," he said.

Confrontation ends up with a victim and a victor. Our simple question to those who are keen on a new round of confrontation is that from where the new victims will arise
Sajjad Lone, chairman, Peoples Conference

Indirectly referring to the Abdullahs and Mehbooba Mufti, he said, it seems that some leaders see their survival in strife, struggle and pain of Kashmiris.

Lone, who was among the mainstream leaders detained after Article 370 revocation, said their ideological differences with the Centre are steep and irreconcilable.

Baghel govt invokes Gandhi bhajans in school curriculum

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Chhattisgarh's Congress Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel has announced mandatory recitation of the devotional 'Raghupati raghav rajaram' and 'Vaishnav jan to tene kahiye...' – the favourite bhajans of Gandhi ji – across state schools.

"The decision is meant to offer tributes to Mahatma Gandhi, Indira Gandhi and Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. It will strengthen the feeling of national unity among the people," said the CM.

The government has made several decisions in the last few days to foster Gandhian ideology and thoughts in the state. One of them is an ambitious project to create the Seva Gram of the 21st century on the lines of Wardha in the new capital city of Nava Raipur. The move will promote rural art, craft and folk music, besides being a platform for brainstorming.

The state has earmarked around 80 acres for the project, which is inspired by the Seva Gram Ashram located in Wardha, set up in 1936 as the residence of Gandhi ji and his wife .

The state had also decided to impart education on the teachings of Gandhi to be introduced in the curriculum of Classes V to XII.

Tushar Gandhi, great-grandson of Mahatma Gandhi, said such a move becomes more relevant to make an India that the founding father had dreamt of.

"Because of the adverse conditions that we see in the concept of New India today, the relevance of Mahatma Gandhi's ideals and practices becomes even greater now. These initiatives and programmes shouldn't be mere tokenism but sincerely implemented to make them more meaningful," he added.

More Congress MLAs might switch to BJP in state

Just a week before the October 30 by-elections to 4 seats in Madhya Pradesh, a first time Congress MLA Sachin Birla joined BJP leaving the opposition party stunned. If sources in ruling BJP in the capital, Bhopal, are to be believed, there will be more such high-profile exits of Congress MLAs, who could quit from the Vidhan Sabha before joining the BJP in the coming months. According to a senior BJP leader, three to four Congress MLAs, including one from Malwa-Nimar region, two from Bundelkhand region and one from Mahakoshal region are in touch with BJP state leadership. 27 Congress MLAs have joined the BJP since March 2020, when 22 Jyotiraditya Scindia loyalist MLAs joined the BJP scripting the fall of the Kamal Nath-led regime.

UP cadre IPS officer from MP named in suicide note

A 2012 batch UP cadre IPS officer Ashish Tiwari, who hails from MP's Itarsi town is among three men named in a suicide note purportedly written by Punjab National Bank officer Shraddha Gupta before committing suicide at rented accomodation in UP's Ayodhya on Saturday. While police probe has revealed that Shraddha's ex fiance Vivek Gupta (also named in the suicide note) was close friend of the IPS officer, the police officer's kin claim that Vivek Gupta wasn't their son Ashish Tiwari's close friend. Vivek without Tiwari's knowledge was using his name to build pressure on Shraddha for marriage.

TALKS GO ON FOR DAYS

During the first days of the conference, around 120 heads of state and their representatives will gather to demonstrate their political commitment to slowing climate change

Once the heads of state depart, country delegations, often led by ministers of environment, engage in days of negotiations, events and exchanges to adopt their positions, make new pledges and join new initiatives

The meeting ends with an outcome text that all countries agree to. Guterres publicly expressed disappointment with the COP25 outcome, and there are signs of trouble heading into COP26

A COMPLEX PROCESS

Over two weeks in November, world leaders and national negotiators will meet in Scotland to discuss what to do about climate change. It's a complex process that can be hard to make sense of from the outside, but it's how international law and institutions help solve problems that no single country can fix on its own

COP26 stands for the 26th Conference of Parties to the UNFCCC. The "parties" are the 196 countries that ratified the treaty plus the EU. The UK, partnering with Italy, is hosting COP26

AIMING FOR NET ZERO EMISSIONS

Countries are required under the Paris Agreement to update their national climate action plans every five years, including at COP26. This year, they're expected to have ambitious targets through 2030. These are known as nationally determined contributions, or NDCs

The Paris Agreement requires countries to report their NDCs, but it allows them leeway in determining how they reduce their greenhouse gas emissions. The initial set of emission reduction targets in 2015 was far too weak to limit global warming to 1.5 degrees Celsius

One key goal of COP26 is to ratchet up these targets to reach net zero carbon emissions by the middle of the century

COST OF FAILURE

Many insiders believe that COP26 won't reach its goal of having strong enough commitments from countries to cut global greenhouse gas emissions 45% by 2030. That means the world won't be on a smooth course for reaching net-zero emissions by 2050 and the goal of keeping warming under 1.5 C

The cost of failure is astronomical. Studies have shown that the difference between 1.5 and 2 degrees Celsius can mean the submersion of small island states, the death of coral reefs, extreme heat waves, flooding and wildfires, and pervasive crop failure

That translates into many premature deaths, more mass migration, major economic losses, large swaths of unlivable land and violent conflict over resources

CALL FOR ACTION AT U.N. CLIMATE SUMMIT

Leaders resort to end-of-the-world rhetoric to revive sputtering international negotiations to slow global warming

GLASGOW

WORLD leaders turned up the heat and resorted to end-of-the-world rhetoric on Monday in an attempt to revive sputtering international climate negotiations.

The metaphors were dramatic and mixed at the start of the talks, known as COP26. For British Prime Minister Boris Johnson, global warming was "a doomsday device" strapped to humanity. United Nations Secretary-General António Guterres told his colleagues that people are "digging our own graves."

In his statement, US President Joe Biden urged world leaders to the meet the challenge of global warming, saying there is "no more time to hang back" or "argue amongst ourselves" about the peril facing the planet.

"Glasgow must be the kick-off of a decade of ambition," Biden told world leaders.

Biden said within the "growing catastrophe" of a warming climate there was an "incredible opportunity" to stave off problems caused by extreme weather, diminishing resources and other disastrous impacts caused by climate change. He said the crisis also offered an opportunity to "make a generational investment" to grow economies around the globe. The US president also said he wants to do more to help countries around the world to address the challenges caused by climate change.

Germany's outgoing Chancellor Angela Merkel urged other countries to put a price on carbon emissions, which are the main cause of global warming. Merkel — who chaired the first Conference of the Parties, or COP1, in 1995 — said the world needs a "comprehensive transformation" of way people live and work if it wants to curb climate change.

Spanish Prime Minister Pedro Sánchez says his government plans to increase its climate finance by 50% by 2025 as a contribution to the common pledge made by rich economies to pay developing nations to help them fight and adapt to climate change.

The PM of Barbados has told world leaders that failing to act urgently on climate change will be a "death sentence" for people in island nations like hers.

French President Emmanuel Macron challenged the world's biggest emitters to immediately step up commitments to curb carbon emissions, saying doing so within the coming days is the only way to make global efforts to slow climate change "credible." "The key for the next 15 days here is that the biggest emitters ... raise their ambitions," Macron said, without calling out specific countries. "It's the only way to make our strategy credible ... and to make 1.5 degrees a credible figure." France sees itself as a guarantor of the Paris accord, and Macron has sought to paint himself as a guardian of the planet. But France has not fully met its own promises so far under the accord. Agencies

There's no more time to hang back or sit on the fence or argue amongst ourselves. This is a challenge of our collective lifetimes. The existential threat, threat to human existence as we know it, and every day we delay the cost of inaction increases

Joe Biden, US President

The people who will judge us are children not yet born and their children, and we are now coming center stage before a vast and uncountable audience of posterity, and we must not fluff our lines or miss our cue, because if we fail they will not forgive us

Boris Johnson, UK Prime Minister

We are, after all, the greatest problem solvers to have ever existed on Earth. If working apart, we are a force powerful enough to destabilise our planet. Surely working together, we are powerful enough to save it

David Attenborough, UK boradcaster

Our addiction to fossil fuels is pushing humanity to the brink. We face a stark choice: Either we stop it — or it stops us

UK commits new funds for electric vehicles in India

GLASGOW

THE UK will provide an "India Green Guarantee" to the World Bank, to unlock an additional 750 million pounds for green projects across India, it was announced at the COP26 summit in Glasgow on Monday.

The green guarantee financing will support clean and resilient infrastructure in sectors such as clean energy, transport and urban development. Further, in an aid-backed Private Infrastructure Development Group (PIDG), the UK has committed more than 210 million pounds in new investment at the UN climate summit to back transformational green projects in developing countries, including electric vehicles (EVs) in India. The UK's PIDG financing will go to schemes including electric vehicle manufacturing in India, green bonds in Vietnam and solar power in Burkina Faso, Pakistan, Nepal and Chad ' projects which are expected to mobilise more than 470 million pounds in additional private sector finance. "I want to see the UK's Green Industrial Revolution go global. The pace of change on clean technology and infrastructure is incredible, but no country should be left behind in the race to save our planet," said British PM Boris Johnson.

"The climate has often been a silent victim of economic growth and progress but the opposite should now be true. Through the Clean Green Initiative, we can help to build back better and greener from the pandemic and put the world on the path to a more sustainable future," he said.

The "Clean Green Initiative" was also launched at COP26 to help developing countries take advantage of green technology and grow their economies sustainably.

ACTIVISTS GATHER IN GLASGOW

The addresses from well over 100 world leaders will be closely scrutinised in particular by young activists who travelled to Scotland by train. "As citizens across the planet, we urge you to face up to the climate emergency," they said in an open letter signed by Thunberg among others, which had gathered over a million signatures

Musk offers $6 bn if UN shows how it can end hunger

LOS ANGELES

ELON Musk, the richest person in the world, says he will sell $6 billion worth of Tesla stock and donate the proceeds to the United Nations' food agency if it could show how the money would solve world hunger.

His statement came after UN World Food Programme Executive Director David Beasley challenged Musk, Amazon founder Jeff Bezos and other billionaires in a CNN interview last week, calling on them to step up on "a one-time basis" to help end starvation.

In the interview, Beasley said billionaires could give "$6 billion to help 42 million people that are literally going to die if we don't reach them."

"It's not complicated," he said. That money would be approximately 2% of Musk's fortune, nearly $300 billion, according to Forbes. His wealth and the wealth of many American multi-billionaires has grown quickly during the Covid-19 pandemic, thanks to increased stock and home equity. The SpaceX founder posted Sunday on Twitter: "If WFP can describe on this Twitter thread exactly how $6B will solve world hunger, I will sell Tesla stock right now and do it." "But it must be open source accounting, so the public sees precisely how the money is spent," he added.

In 2020, the agency received $8.4 billion in donations, which it says was $5.3 billion short of its requirements. Its top donors include the US, Germany and the UK. Beasley responded to Musk on Twitter, writing $6 billion will not solve world hunger, "but it WILL prevent geopolitical instability, mass migration and save 42 million people on the brink of starvation. AP

Public transport services in Sri Lanka resumed services on Monday, after a six-month long inter-province ban imposed due to the raging third wave of Covid-19 pandemic, but health officials urged the public to remain vigilant against possible virus surge. With the ban being lifted, transport officials are ensuring that public transport services operate under stringent guidelines, adhering to the Covid-19 protocols. Sri Lanka's Public Transport Minister Dilum Amunugama said that all buses will be permitted to operate according to their seating capacity. "Any bus driver who violates this condition will be arrested," Amunugama said. Sri Lanka Railways has also resumed services, with more than 150 daily trips being operational from Monday

170 Rohingyas arrested after leader's murder

Bangladesh police have arrested 172 Rohingya in recent weeks after a crackdown sparked by the brutal murder of a prominent community leader, the force said on Monday. Mohib Ullah, a Rohingya leader, was shot dead in late September in a refugee camp near the port city of Cox's Bazar, in a region home to over 7,00,000 members of the stateless Muslim minority who fled a 2017 military crackdown in Myanmar. The 48-year-old teacher was a respected advocate for the community but in the weeks before his assassination he had been the target of death threats from the Arakan Rohingya Salvation Army militant group. Police have also relocated more than 70 people, including the slain advocate's family and relatives of seven people shot dead last month

Queen seen driving, easing health fears

London: Queen Elizabeth II was spotted at the wheel of a car at Windsor Castle on Monday, British media reported, allaying fears for her health after she skipped the UK-hosted COP26 summit on doctors' advice. The 95-year-old was seen alone in a green Jaguar estate she uses to transport her corgis. The UK's longest-serving monarch was recently seen walking with a cane and has reportedly given up riding horses.

Philippine Communist leader killed by military

Manila: Philippine forces have killed a key communist rebel commander in one of Asia's longest-running insurgencies, in what the military described as a daring raid in the country's remote southern region, but what guerrilla leaders said was an ambush. Jorge Madlos, who used the nom de guerre Ka Oris, was for many decades a leading figure and spokesman for the communist fighters in the southern Philippines.

US in shock over pace of China's military advancements

WASHINGTON

CHINA'S growing military muscle and its drive to end American predominance in the Asia-Pacific is rattling the US defence establishment. American officials see trouble quickly accumulating on multiple fronts — Beijing's expanding nuclear arsenal, its advances in space, cyber and missile technologies, and threats to Taiwan.

"The pace at which China is moving is stunning," says General John Hyten, the No 2-ranking US military officer, who previously commanded US nuclear forces and oversaw Air Force space operations.

At stake is a potential shift in the global balance of power that has favored the United States for decades. A realignment more favorable to China does not pose a direct threat to the United States but could complicate US alliances in Asia. New signs of how the Pentagon intends to deal with the China challenge may emerge in coming weeks from Biden administration policy reviews. For now, officials marvel at how Beijing is marshaling the resources, technology and political will to make rapid gains — so rapid that the Biden administration is attempting to reorient all aspects of US foreign and defence policy.

At the current pace of China's military investment, Beijing "will surpass the United States" in overall military power in coming years "if we don't do something," said Hyten, who is retiring in November. AP

GST mop-up at ₹1.3 L cr in Oct, second highest so far

24% higher than year-ago period; 36% over pre-Covid level of 2019

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BACKED by the festive sales, the gross Goods and Services Tax collection in October stood at ₹1.3 lakh crore, second highest ever since the introduction of GST, 24% higher than the GST revenues in the same month last year and 36% over the pre-Covid levels of 2019.

According to a statement by the Ministry of Finance, of the total collection, CGST is ₹23,861 crore, SGST ₹30,421 crore, IGST is ₹67,361 crore which includes ₹32,998 crore collected on import of goods and cess ₹8,484 crore, including ₹699 crore collected on import of goods.

"This is very much in line with the trend in economic recovery. This is also evident from the trend in the e-way bills generated every month since the second wave. The revenues would have still been higher if the sales of cars and other products had not been affected on account of disruption in supply of semi-conductors," the statement released by the finance ministry said.

Apart from the recovery in demand backed by the festive sales, the government also attributed growth in GST to improved compliance level. "In addition to action against individual tax evaders, this has been a result of the multi-pronged approach followed by the GST Council," the ministry said. And going by the festive sales in November and trend in e bay bills, experts claim that the collection is expected to remain healthy in the coming months. "With the October 2021 GST e-way bills expected to exceed the level seen in the previous month, the headline GST collections are slated to remain healthy in the range of ₹1.25-₹1.35 lakh crore in November," said Aditi Nayar, chief economist, Icra.

The government settled ₹27,310 crore to CGST and ₹22,394 crore to SGST from IGST as regular settlement. The total revenue of Centre and the states after regular settlements October 2021 is ₹51,171 crore for CGST and ₹52,815 crore for the SGST. So far the highest GST collection was of ₹1.4 lakh crore recorded in April this year, on account of year end revenues.

Manufacturing hits 8-month high: PMI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MANUFACTURING activities accelerated to an eight-month high in October but companies continued to shed job and rising input cost hit 8-year high, forcing many companies to pass on cost to consumers, said the latest IHS Markit purchasing managers index (PMI) survey. PMI rose to 55.9 in October from 53.7 in the previous month, highest since February.

Pollyanna De Lima, Economics Associate Director at IHS Markit, said, "With companies gearing up for further improvements in demand by building up their stocks, it looks like manufacturing activity will continue to expand throughout the third quarter of fiscal year 2021-22 should the pandemic remain under control."

Despite the improvement in manufacturing activities, employment continued to decline. The silver lining was that the rate of job shedding was marginal in October. Also, inflation remained a concern as firms claimed input costs hit a 92-month high, prompting some of them to raise selling prices.

Rising prices for several materials and transportation cost resulting in to increase in overall input costs at the sharpest rate since February 2014. Anecdotal evidence highlighted higher chemical, fabric, metal, electronic components, oil, plastic and transportation costs. Subsequently, a few firms raised selling prices again. "Of concern, input cost inflation accelerated substantially in October — to a near eight-year high — as strong global demand for scarce raw materials continued to push up prices for these items," Lima said.

New orders grew at the fastest pace in 7 months, while factory output increased at the strongest pace since March. New export orders surged at a solid pace as well, the quickest in three months. IHS Markit said that confidence among producers was boosted by predictions that business conditions would improve further.

Firms continue to cut jobs, face hike in input cost

Companies continued to shed job and rising input cost hit 8-year high, forcing many companies to pass on cost to consumers, said the latest IHS Markit purchasing managers index (PMI) survey.

As carmakers face chip shortage bump, sales on downward track in Oct

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DESPITE strong demand, the auto industry loses sales for one more month due to the global semiconductors shortage crisis. India's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki's domestic wholesale in October plunged by 32% to 112,788 units compared to 166,825 units during October last year.

"While the shortage of electronic components continued to affect the production of vehicles during the month, the company took all possible measures to minimise the impact," Maruti Suzuki said in a statement.

Similarly, Hyundai managed to sell only 37,021 vehicles last month. This is a massive 35% drop in sales on year, with 56,605 units sold in Oct 2020.

On Saturday, Maruti Suzuki termed current supply chain situation as quite dynamic and said it expects its total vehicle production volume across its facilities to be around 85% of the normal production.

Industry analysts expect semiconductor shortages to continue at least for the next 5-6 months. Ratings agency Crisil recently downgraded its passenger vehicle market growth forecast to 11-13% YoY in FY22 against the earlier forecast of 14-16%.

Due to this shortage, the automakers have not been able to capitalise on the peak festive demand for new vehicles. Maruti Suzuki alone has over 2 lakh pending orders while popular SUVs of Hyundai and Mahindra & Mahindra are witnessing a waiting period of around 5-6 months.

MG Motor and Kia Motors also reported a sharp fall in domestic sales due to semiconductor crisis. Renault and Honda sales also plunged last month.

However, Tata Motors, Mahindra, Nissan and Skoda managed to post positive numbers last month despite challenges.

SENSEX RECLAIMS 60,000-MARK; TRADE CAUTIOUSLY, SAY EXPERTS

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S equity market ended its three-day losing streak with the benchmark indices-Nifty50 and BSE Sensex-gaining 1.5% each on Monday on the back of strong buying seen across IT, metal and realty stocks.

Sensex ended the Monday session 831 points higher at 60,138 while the Nifty index closed at 17,929 up 266 points. This rally comes after India's equity market last week had its biggest weekly slump in eight months with the Sensex and Nifty shedding about 2.5% of their value.

"Markets witnessed a rebound and gained nearly one and a half percent, taking a breather after the recent fall. Upbeat global cues triggered a firm start, however, profit taking at the higher levels capped the upside. The news of GST collection reaching closer to record high (at ₹1.30 lakh crore) fueled fresh momentum in the latter half," said Ajit Mishra, VP - Research, Religare Broking.

He added that market participants should continue with the cautious approach and not jump into trade as the upcoming US Fed meeting and Q2FY22 earnings will dictate the trend ahead.

Other analysts agree that international markets may have some uncertainty before the upcoming Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting. They believe sustenance of the trend will depend on the views provided by the Federal Reserve regarding the current easy money policy to be announced on Wednesday.

Vijay Dhanotiya, Lead of Technical Research at CapitalVia Global Research, said that they retain their cautious stance and advise the traders to refrain from building a fresh buying position, until they see further improvement and Nifty50 sustain above 18,000.

Spurs sack Nuno after just four months in charge

Tottenham on Monday sacked manager Nuno Espirito Santo after just four months in charge following their fifth defeat in 10 Premier League games. Spurs gave an insipid display in their 3-0 defeat at home by Manchester United on Saturday, with fans booing and chanting "You don't know what you're doing" at the former Wolves boss.

IOA meets to finalise Dec 19 poll date; Anju athletes panel 'representative'

Posturing, parleying, filibustering and show of strength are some of the words that's expected to dominate the next few weeks ahead of the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) election in December. Especially with a divided house – one led by the IOA president and the other by the secretary general — there could be intense lobbying and some acrimony too. The date for general body meeting (special or annual), as reported by this newspaper, has been finalised for December 19 during a meeting of the executive council at the IOA Bhavan on Monday. Both IOA president, Narinder Batra, and secretary general, Rajeev Mehta, were part of the meeting where some 20-plus members attended the meeting.

It was hurriedly convened and even the agenda was revised on Sunday evening. Just a short recap, the EC meeting, as reported by this newspaper, was called by Mehta on Thursday. Batra called it illegal because the letter was sent without his consent and was 'unsigned'. Batra, in an internal communication, said that any decision taken in that meeting in Hyatt Regency would be treated as invalid. A slew of meetings on both sides took place over the weekend and after much deliberation, both agreed to hold Monday's meeting with election on mind. On the agenda was giving affiliation to new units and account reports in the earlier notice but on Monday nothing was discussed. Apparently, the meeting on Monday was held after both factions agreed to finalise the election date – December 19.

However, the meeting was not without some excitement. It could be viewed as a show of strength too. Apparently, Anju Bobby George, the Athletes Commission chairperson, and member of the same commission, Malav Shrof, ended up in the meeting. According to the IOA constitution, only one can be part of the EC with voting rights during elections too. According to insiders who attended the meeting, Batra proposed Anju's (2003 worlds medallist in long jump) name and majority (17 to 5 votes while one abstained) supported the 2003 World championships medallist. However, since Shrof, an Olympian, is a reputed athlete he also was allowed to attend the meeting. In the December meet two athletes panel members can represent but one will have voting rights. However, the Mehta faction is of the view that the athletes panel representative would be chosen by the committee itself and it there was no need for voting.

The venue as of now seems to be Bengaluru (as recommended earlier) but New Delhi is also not being ruled out. Agendas have been fixed and all formalities are expected to be over by November 9 after which the formal notice would be sent. The all-too-controversial accounts too will be tabled in December.

The election gains significance because of two posts lying vacant. The secretary general finishes two four-year term this year. However, both the sides have not decided on their panel. Though Batra is supposed to be enjoying support from some senior members, Mehta, is apparently mobilising his numbers too.

ARABIAN NIGHTMARE

Multiple factors have contributed to Men in Blue's dismal WC show

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

PLAYED two, lost two and second last on the points table sandwiched between Namibia and Scotland. It's quite the start to the World Cup for India who were, by all accounts, at least joint favourites with England and West Indies. Over the course of two Sundays, though, that prophecy has been blown to smithereens through a combination of poor shot execution, iffy selection decisions, a probable lack of global exposure in this format, dearth of format-specific coaches and mental fatigue. This is not an exhaustive list. Here's an in-depth look at some of the reasons behind their derailment...

Less than a sum of their parts

In the last two games, the team has looked like an expensively assembled football side but without a clear plan. This can happen for a number of reasons. A lack of trust, no real clarity on their role within the set-up and, crucially, key batters out of form. Save KL Rahul, none of the other members of the top six were consistent coming into the World Cup. The hallmark of most winning T20 sides is confidence, fluidity, interchangeability and one player essaying different roles (example of Moeen Ali or Glenn Maxwell being a powerplay bowling option coupled with a spin hitter while batting). This side lacked in all departments.

Anchor-heavy strategy

Sure, they had to rebuild first after losing at least two powerplay wickets in both games. But it still didn't mean they need not hit boundaries. Against New Zealand, they became the first side to not hit a boundary between the 7th and 15th over of an innings this World Cup. For so long, Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma have been able to turn 25 off 20 starts to 70 off 50 scores. Both of them have not been able to do that consistently, not just for India but for their IPL sides as well the last 18 months or so. The team management failed to identify this.

Policy paralysis

During the year's first big significant test, a winning return against England, Kohli warmed up to the possibility of opening. He never followed through with that. KL Rahul was dropped and brought back. Ishan Kishan opened, dropped then opened again. The team put down their conservative approach to embrace boundary hitting but slipped back to conservatism in both games in UAE to end up with less than par scores. To paint a grim picture, India have hit six sixes across two games. That's just one more than Jos Buttler hit in a 32-ball innings against Australia. There was also the curious Hardik Pandya decision. After planning for years around him as a fifth bowler, they compromised on his fitness.

Selection calls

The team management bet the house on Yuzvendra Chahal in the shortest format. Since the beginning of 2017, he has played in 46 international matches (third highest behind Kohli and Rohit). They very clearly planned to have him for this World Cup. Yet, they moved to Ravi Ashwin, who hasn't played in a single T20I match since 2017. They also carried Hardik with them knowing he wasn't fit enough to bowl when required. They also ignored the IPL forms of the likes of Ruturaj Gaikwad as well as the serious loss in form of the likes of Suryakumar Yadav but they can be excused for that.

T20 as a shortened ODI

When analysts talk about T20, they talk about it not as a different format of the game. They see it as a different sport itself. Some of the leading franchises and countries that excel in the format have also come around to the opinion that T20 needs to be viewed as a different game altogether. India, at some level, still see it as a 'shortened ODI'. That's why they don't have multiple established standalone T20 specialists (Varun Chakravarthy is the lone exception) threatening to take away spots in the XI. The absence of spin bowling as well as power hitting coaches is a wrong that ought to be corrected in the next cycle.

Lack of exposure

The Indian Premier League is the best T20 league, of that there is little doubt. But players of other international sides have access to other T20 leagues. Thus they are exposed to the wider trends, play in different conditions and interact with a wider number of coaches. Of course, if India do decide to allow their white-ball specialists to play elsewhere, that could potentially allow bigger debates. But that's one way to expose specific T20 specialists to all the elite T20 leagues around the world. Full story: newindianexpress.com

England's Jos Buttler celebrates after scoring a century on Sunday | AP

BUTTLER POWERS ENGLAND TO VICTORY

SHARJAH: Jos Buttler hit the first century of the Twenty20 World Cup as his unbeaten 101 helped England beat Sri Lanka by 26 runs on Monday and almost seal a semifinal spot. After England were invited to bat first, Buttler smashed six fours and six sixes in his 67-ball knock and put on 112 runs with skipper Eoin Morgan, who made 40, to help team post 163/4 in 20 overs. The England opener, who hit an unbeaten 71 in the win over Australia, surpassed his previous T20 best of 83 and now has 214 runs in the tournament. In reply, Sri Lanka got off to a bad start and never got going. Wanindu Hasaranga, who had earlier picked up three wickets, hit 34 runs but his effort was not enough. Brief scores: England 163/4 in 20 ovs (Buttler 101 n.o; Hasaranga 3/21) bt Sri Lanka 137 in 19 ovs (Hasaranga 34; Moeen Ali 2/15).

PROTEAS FACE WIN-LESS BANGLADESH

South Africa can take a big step towards qualifying for the semifinals. A look at their match against Bangladesh on Tuesday...

MARKRAM'S THRUST

While Proteas' top-order has failed to provide the initial burst, that has been offset by Aiden Markram's hitting ability in the middle-order. He averages 55 in this tournament and his capacity to hit spin has kept them in solid ground.

SHAMSI'S ATTACKING POWER

In editions past, South Africa have been handicapped because of the absence of an elite spinner. Tabraiz Shamsi has filled that spot in this edition, providing crucial breakthroughs in two of the three matches.

QUADRUPLE M FACTOR

Like is the case with Bangladesh, much of what they can do rests on the likes of Mushfiqur Rahim, Mahmudullah, Mustafizur Rahman and Mahedi Hasan. If they perform, cause for an upset increases.

Rohit & two others bow out

AGENCIES @New Delhi

ROHIT Mor, Akash Sangwan and Sumit lost their respective pre-quarterfinal fights to bow out of the ongoing AIBA Men's Boxing Championships in Belgrade, Serbia, on Monday.

Akash (67kg) started with aggressive intent against Kevin Brown as both the boxers exchanged heavy blows.

However, the Cuban boxer showed his technical superiority against the Indian, who was making a maiden appearance at the Championships, and secured a win by unanimous verdict to set up a quarterfinal with Georgian boxer Lasha Guruli.

Focus on Barca & United

Struggling giants Barcelona have had a tame season so far and seek boost in the Champions League. Man United look to find some stable ground when they face away test at Atalanta. A look at the two matches...

DYNAMO KYIV VS BARCELONA | 1:30 AM

After losing both of their opening games 3-0 to Bayern Munich and Benfica, Barcelona, who are currently without a manager, gave themselves hope with a 1-0 win over Dynamo at home last time out. But another victory in the reverse fixture remains crucial, given Barca will finish the group stage at home to Benfica and then away at Bayern Munich.

ATALANTA VS MANCHESTER UNITED | 1:30 AM

After a humiliating 0-5 loss against arch-rivals Liverpool, Man United showed that they still possess the talent in the squad to turn things around during their 3-0 victory against Tottenham in the EPL. The group that they are in is a very tight one with United sitting on top. However, a defeat could be damaging for manager Ole Gunnar Solskjaer & his boys.

India men's U-23 football team finished second in Asian Cup Qualifiers

Show at qualifiers sign of progress at grassroots: Ex-defender Rino

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

MIRACLES cannot be expected, but Indian football is heading in the right direction if the senior pros are to be believed. The India U-23 team securing its best-ever finish in the AFC U-23 Asian Cup Qualifiers recently justifies the belief.

"During the times when we were involved with the national team, we didn't see a lot of football at the age-group level. Most of us would just be drafted straight into the national team when we peak. Things are changing now and these youngsters are getting the opportunity to develop as they are playing from as young as the under-17 level. We can't expect miracles of course, but such performances are very positive going forward," said former India international Rino Anto.

The 33-year-old who has played for some of the biggest clubs in India including the likes of Mohun Bagan, East Bengal, Bengaluru FC and Kerala Blasters etc is currently with Punjab FC.

He has also won some of the major titles in India like the I-League and the Federation Cup to name a few.

The defender feels that the youngsters put in excellent performances against some top teams. "I think they narrowly missed out on qualification but there were some fine performances. The win against Oman stood out while the performance of the boys against Kyrgyzstan was also impressive," he said. India managed to pip Kyrgyzstan in the shootout as they finished second in the group. The top teams from each group qualify while the best four teams who finished second will also go through for the main event which will be held next year. India now have an anxious wait to see if they can still qualify. Full story: newindianexpress.com

"The construction of the samadhi of Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya ji in Shri Kedarnath is to honour him and to combine his knowledge and qualities as an ideal forever. One can understand this through the work being done in Kedarnath, which would be an ideal pilgrimage site, whether it's a matter of convenience for the devotees or the welfare of the priest. Narendra Modi, Prime Minister

Kedarpuri attracting devotees from far and wide

Kedarpuri is being built as a new, safe and convenient religious and spiritual city, under the guidance of the Prime Minister

Shri Kedarnath Dham is one of the greatest centres of Hinduism. Seated in the snow-capped peaks of Himalaya in Rudraprayag district of Uttarakhand, Shri Kedarnath Dham has the power to make you feel divine. The Mandakini river originates from here. The Chardham Yatra is incomplete without a visit to Kedarnath. After the disaster in Kedarnath in 2013, its reconstruction was started when the Narendra Modi government came to power in 2014. PM Modi had given the message of "Safe Uttarakhand, Safe Yatra" after meditating in Kedarnath's meditation cave.

The reconstruction of Kedarnath shrine was included in the Prime Minister's dream project. Given his attachment to the shrine, PM Modi has been monitoring the project himself all along.

> Being very close to the PM's heart, the reconstruction of one of the holiest shrines of Hinduism is happening on a war footing, and he wants its form to be grand and divine

The reconstruction works are being done considering the future requirements, and the religious and spiritual aspects will be maintained at all costs. In 2021, Kedarpuri would be reopened in its grand form, to attract devotees of the country and those from across the world. It's truly said that, before traveling across the world, one must visit Kedarnath — a unique confluence of faith and nature.

A BETTER, SAFER KEDARNATH AS PER PM MODI'S VISION

After Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya ji, the picture of Kedarnath Dham has completely changed under the vision of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. On November 5, 2021, the PM will inaugurate and lay the foundation stone for the reconstruction works in New Kedarpuri. This includes reconstruction of Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya Samadhi, flood control measures on the banks of Saraswati river, as well as construction of ghats. The government has spent Rs 70 crore on these projects. Construction of 60-meter bridge over Mandakini river for Garudchatti is also complete, while retention walls have also been created on the banks of the river to control the floods at a cost of Rs 60 crore. These projects will also be inaugurated by the PM Modi. The PM will also lay the foundation stone of schemes worth Rs 108.88 crore. These include redevelopment of Sangam Ghat in Shri Kedarnath Dham, First Aid and Tourism Facility Centre, Row Management in Mandakini Astha Path, Rain Shelter, retention walls and stairs, administrative office and hospital building construction work and civil works. The foundation stone of the museum complex will also be laid at Kedarnath Dham.

ON NOVEMBER 5, 2021, THE PM WILL INAUGURATE AND LAY THE FOUNDATION STONE FOR THE RECONSTRUCTION WORKS IN NEW KEDARPURI

RS 708 CRORE RELEASED SO FAR FOR THE RECONSTRUCTION OF CHARDHAM

Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami said that Rs 708 crore has been released by the state government for various construction works in Chardham. Under this, Rs 409 crore has been released for the works in Kedarnath. Rs 245 crore has been approved for the construction work of the first phase in Badrinath. Meanwhile Rs 55 crore has been sanctioned for various works at Gangotri and Yamunotri shrines. The work of Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya's Samadhi Sthal in Kedarnath is nearing completion.

The work of reconstruction of Char Dham is going on in full swing, CM Dhami said. The work of the first phase has been completed in Kedarnath, while tenders worth Rs 70 crore have also been floated for the second phase of the reconstruction work. Funds have also been approved for Badrinath Dham, and work will soon start on the same.

THE EMPLOYMENT AND LIVELIHOOD OF MANY RESIDENTS IN THE HILL STATE OF UTTARAKHAND IS DEPENDENT ON THE CHARDHAM YATRA, AND THAT'S A MAJOR REASON WHY THE GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN TRYING TO COMPLETE THE PROJECT ON A WAR FOOTING

Development of Badrishpuri to be done on the lines of Kedarnath

With the efforts of the Central government and the state government, Kedarnath Dham has incarnated into a new form. Now Badrinath Dham will be developed on the lines of development work in Kedarpuri. According to the wishes of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the state government has prepared the master plan of Badrinath keeping in mind the requirements of the next 100 years. After taking shape, like Kedarnath, all the four complexes of Badrinath temple will also remain open. Along with the convenience of commuting, several other works have also been proposed in the master-plan. With this, Badrishpuri will also emerge in a completely new and grander form.

The PM took note of the matter and after reviewing the reconstruction work of Kedarnath, he insisted on preparing a similar plan for the development of Badri Dham as well. He also asked the authorities to make plans for the redevelopment of the shrines keeping in mind the requirements of the next 100 years. As per his wishes, the state government has prepared the master-plan of Badrinath. The first phase of the master-plan includes beautification of Shesh Netra and Badrish Lake, riverfront development, one-way loop road construction, expansion of the hospital and construction of multi-purpose building. Meanwhile, under the second phase, site development work will be done around the Badrinath Temple. And in the third phase construction of Astha Path from the lake to the temple will be completed.

The district administration has given instructions to concerned departments to coordinate with each other and to start the proposed works in a time-bound manner. Instruction have been given to start the works of the first phase that do not face any impediments. The administration has reviewed the works at Shesh Netra, Badrish Lake, Taptkund, Brahma Kapal, Narad Kund, Sugriva Shila, Alaknand river banks, Saket Tiraha, hospital, bus station and Devdarshini, and given appropriate directions to the implementing authorities.

Meditation Cave at Kedarnath a centre of attraction among pilgrims

The Meditation Cave, in which Prime Minister Narendra Modi spent 17 hours in solitude, has become a centre of attraction for devotees. The government has prepared this ancient cave under the reconstruction project for meditation in front of Bhairavnath Temple. It was after the PM's meditation session that the cave became popular among Indian and international pilgrims.

Three more caves are also being constructed in Kedarnath Dham by the local administration. These three caves are being built at an altitude of around 12,500 feet near Kedarnath so that devotees can meditate in solitude and peace.

CM DHAMI TAKES STOCK OF RECONSTRUCTION WORK

Chief minister Pushkar Singh Dhami worshiped Kedarnath Baba and wished Bhole Baba for the prosperity of the country and the state. The CM also inspected the reconstruction work and Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya Samadhi Sthal and directed the implementing agencies to complete the project on time. He also spoke to the pilgrims at the shrine and took stock of the facilities.

The CM reached Kedarnath Dham by helicopter. From here he reached the Kedarnath temple for darshan. The chief priest performed the Rudradrabhishek. After this, the CM inspected the Samadhi site of Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya, which is under construction, just behind the temple. The idol of Adiguru Shri Shankaracharya had been carried to the shrine by Chinook, an Indian Air Force helicopter, just a few days before.

The CM also spoke to the officers, engineers and laborers engaged in the reconstruction work being done under the second phase.

Bright colours, bold styles and a twist to traditional outfits... B'lureans are experimenting with all this and more this Deepavali

FASHION FORWARD

ANILA KURIAN

AFTER a stressful year thanks to the pandemic, Bengalureans are now ready to let their hair down this festive season. As Deepavali sets in, youngsters in the city are going all out to look their best. Giving it a non-traditional spin is Madhurima Bhattacharjee, founder of shopmb, a fashion boutique. "Batik on silks has become an easy option to wear for house parties this season. Another trend is to have a highly effective wardrobe that can be styled and used beyond the festivities. For example, a multi-functional jacket dress set can be worn for a festive dinner and later for brunches and parties. A rani pink silk sheath dress is yet another classy piece that gives people a Breakfast in Tiffany's feel, but also works really well as festive wear."

Bengalureans are giving tradition a twist by styling lehengas and sarees differently. Instagram influencers like Nandini Swaminathan and Komal Pandey are draping the saree in a non-traditional manner, changing the way the pallu is worn — around the neck or pairing it with jackets — and creating statement pieces.

Men aren't shying away from bold colours either, says designer Paresh Lamba of Paresh Lamba Signatures. "Evenings have become more intimate . Comfortable clothing and experimentation with colours is the go-to fashion statement. Now, men are wearing kurtas or short kurtas with trousers and adding a bandi jacket with prints, colour blocks and designs on them," Lamba says.

Colours like mint green, lemon yellow, fuchsia pink are popular this season. "The brighter the colour, the better it is. However, the brightness of the outfits is broken with subtle coloured tops or bottoms too," adds Lamba.

After a quiet 2020, stylist Mithilesh Nyathappa finds that both men and women want to deck out more than ever this time. "Be it draping a saree for women or a dhoti for men, the traditional approach is now taking a backseat. Women have always been experimental but men are doing it more this year. They are open to blending patterns, designs and styles to their Deepavali outfits and are making them Instagram-worthy. Men are going in for accessories such as brooches and pocket squares," Nyathappa says, adding that gold and copper silks with bright colours like pink and green in pastel shades are a hot favourite.

No festive occasion is complete without good-looking shoes. Going with the theme of comfortable wear, people are opting for block heels and flats, like that of Fizzy Goblet shoes. Co-owner Laksheeta Govil says, "Bright colours add a dramatic touch to the outfit. Indian textiles in western silhouettes like brocade pant- suits are trending this year. We're seeing a demand for block heels as they offer a balanced look to any silhouette."

If she's not dealing with medical emergencies, you will find this doctor painting a pretty picture

SANATH PRASAD

DR Niharika Aneja was a three-year-old when she got her hands on paint brushes and got lost in the world of art. Today, this passion comes in handy as she looks for an escape from her demanding line of work as a medical professional. Cartooning, doodling, sandpaper painting, glass painting, canvas painting — Aneja finds solace in creative and artistic work, as she deals with emergency cases at Columbia Asia Hospital, Sarjapur Road.

From dealing with trauma cases to heart attacks, Aneja is always on her toes. "But it's painting that helps me move away from reality. I paint depending upon my mood. If I am sad, I sketch using pencils... I usually stick to black and white themes. If I am chirpy, I use oil pastels and acrylic colours. If I have a day off, I do sand painting and glass painting, and also experiment. I also like finishing paintings in four to five hours at a stretch without taking it into the next day," says the 30-year-old.

Interestingly, Aneja also combines painting with music. Drawing inspiration from the songs her father used to listen to, Aneja too listens to the same as she wields her brush. "If I am listening to jazz or ghazals, I stick to sketching. If I am listening to something peppy, I would work on acrylic painting. It helps me relieve tension and stress to a great extent," says Aneja, who has completed a four-year degree in painting from Bal Bharati Kalakendra, Dhanbad, Jharkhand. "It is a five-year course and I managed to complete only four. Thanks to medical examinations that came with a studying overload, I wasn't able to finish the course. I regret this dearly," says Aneja.

For some reason, Aneja prefers staying away from working on sculptures. What she does like, however, are nature-based themes like butterflies, trees, landscapes, birds and flowers. Aneja believes that with many emergency cases that involve life and death, a getaway for people in professions such as her's is imperative.

"Dealing with emergency cases like strokes, heart attack and trauma is a painstaking job. I cannot afford a vacation and my only alternative is to turn to my creative skills. Although certain emergency cases haunt me, painting takes me to a fresh world and clears my mind of negativity," says Aneja.

FIT BIT

MANIBANDHA NAMAN
(WRIST BENDING)

'Manibandha' means the wrist, a Sanskrit compound consisting of the terms 'mani' and 'bandha'. Wrist bending plays a vital role in performing various other asanas where the wrists are used extensively for body balance and support. The wrists are one of the most used parts of the body and we rarely realise their importance while performing routine tasks. Along with working the wrist joints, you can also work your neck muscles by turning the neck outwards in the opposite direction of the hand.

STEPS

- Sit in a comfortable position like Sukhasana (Easy Pose) or Padmasana (Lotus Pose) Vajrasana (Thunderbolt Pose) or Dandasana (Staff Pose). You can even sit on a chair.
- Focus on your entire body. Make sure you keep your spine is erect, neck is straight; look forward.
- Keep your eyes open, stretch out both arms at shoulder level.
- When you inhale deeply, raise the hands upward from the wrist joint, fingers pointing upwards. You should be able to see your palm. Exhale and turn the hand downwards so that the fingers now point to the floor.
- Repeat this sequence at least 10 times. Then, relax and place both hands on the knees.
- Now, concentrate on the wrist joints while keeping your eyes closed.
- Focus on the stretch of the muscles in the forearm. Open your eyes and prepare yourself for the next set of yoga exercises.

BENEFITS

- Increases flexibility of the wrists and loosens up the joints.
- Motion of the wrist joints improves with the regular practice.
- Relieves pain in the shoulders and upper back. Beneficial to individuals who work long hours typing.
- Increases blood circulation in the hands.

LIMITATIONS

- Don't bend or turn the fingers while doing this stretch.
- Avoid locking your elbows. Engage your triceps muscles rather than your elbow joints.
- Avoid jerky movements of the wrist joints.
- People suffering from wrist injuries and fractures should avoid these exercises.

This city-based illustrator's musical album will premiere at the UN Climate Change Conference COP26 in Glasgow today

CLIMATE, CONCERNS, CREATIVITY

IT'S a big day for 23-year-old Sachin Bhatt whose years of hardwork will pay off today. The youngster's work, a musical album in collaboration with Indian-British musician Soumik Datta, will premiere at the UN Climate Change Conference COP26 in Glasgow today. Called Songs of the Earth, the animation film — accompanied by an eight-track album — weaves issues like climate migration, extreme weather, ocean pollution, deforestation and sustainable fashion.

Through an original narrative, songs and visuals, the 24-minute-long film follows the life of Asha, a young climate refugee from Bengal, as she searches for her missing father through the flood banks of Sundarbans delta, burning forests and melting polar ice caps. The film is a dedication to Global South (refers broadly to the regions of Latin America, Asia, Africa, and Oceania) and those who have been tragically displaced by environmental crises and natural disasters.

Along with Bhatt, Anjali Kama, his former classmate, worked with Datta to draw and digitally create the film. "I must have hand-drawn at least 250 images for this project in two months," says Bhatt, adding, "It's not my first time working with Datta. He found me on social media two years ago and I've been designing album covers and so on for him."

For Songs of the Earth, Datta reached out to him two months ago for a job that generally requires 10 to 15 people. "We actually thought it would be impossible but the project was really interesting and I knew Kama would be able to help me out. So I'm in Bengaluru, Datta in London and Kama in Brooklyn...we worked close to 16 hours every day to make this happen," says Bhatt, a graduate of Srishti Institute of Art, Design and Technology.

With Kama and Bhatt's different styles of animation, it was a challenge to merge the two and bring out the final product, he says, adding, "I know Kama from college but we've never worked together. Everyone was very cooperative, so it was great," he says. As the art director, Bhatt came up with a storyboard to get the look and feel of the music. The illustrators took up equal amounts of digital work to complete the project.

Last year, Bhatt worked on an animation for Javed Akhtar and Shankar Mahadevan's song about Covid affecting the elderly. Bhatt says, "I guess subconsciously, working on social messages has become my forte now. However, I still work with other artistes for their music or any other digital projects."

As a team, we have worked 16 hours a day to complete the 24-minute film in just two months.

ROOTING FOR KANNADA

ON Rajyotsava morning, a friend of mine, who was absconding from social media platforms for several months, chose to make a comeback by sharing some lines describing 'the abode of Kannada' from Kabbigara Kaava (Poetry In Defense of Poets, 1217–1235) written by 13th-century Kannada writer Andayya during the Hoysala era. Andayya, according to literary historiographers, was a renegade of sorts, who took a non-conformist path by using only aboriginal Kannada words and naturalised Sanskrit (tadbhava), while fully avoiding usage of Sanskrit words (tatsamas), making it one of the outstanding literary works in medieval Kannada literature.

My friend informed me that it was a rebellion against the dominance of Sanskrit, also taken up by other noted poets such as Nayasena and Mahalingaranga. "Why dilute Kannada, a rich language, with Sanskrit?" they asked. Having studied Andayya's work during my high school years, I recalled, he was much easier to comprehend. I have been relating his stand to the emerging new wave of Kannada identity consciousness that is going strong since last two decades, after a brief period of dormancy during initial years of globalisation.

Noted South-Africa-based comedian Trevor Noah says, "Language brings with it an identity and a culture, or at least the perception of it. A shared language says, 'We're the same.' A language barrier says, "We're different." While linguistic assertion has been part of political movements in the neighbouring Tamil Nadu, Kannadigas used to be known for their easy-going, lenient, non-confrontational attitude. However, all this changed in the last few decades, with the realisation that their language is under serious threat. Several pro-Kannada organisations such as Karnataka Rakshana Vedike have since then been active in taking up the linguistic cause aggressively. A few years ago, I was speaking to a prominent Kannada activist who said there is a strong need for such a campaign. "It is high time we claimed our turf. We have been too nice, mowing it for others," he told me.

Bengaluru is considered a microcosm of Karnataka. Linguistic barriers blur in the country's tech capital. It is said that one can live here comfortably without worrying much about knowing the native tongue — a cause for concern for Kannadigas. Literary organisations like Banavasi Balaga, Sanchi Foundation, Sankathana, innumerable theatre groups and organisations and publications like Aharnishi, Ankita, Abhinava, Sangatha, Pallava, Akruthi have been doing commendable work towards promoting Kannada language and literature. While there is a debate going on about widespread usage of 'Kanglish' by Kannada television channels, linguist Dr Shankar Bhat has been advocating usage of a simpler version of Kannada with its own words coined for all occasions.

Meanwhile, it is a matter of worry that a majority of young Kannadigas are not in touch with their roots.

"Kannada and other languages spoken in Karnataka such as Tulu, Kodava, Konkani, Havyaka etc will definitely survive in our towns and villages. It is up to urban Kannadigas now to strive for their language. They have an unfathomable gap to fill," declares Manasa, a Kannada lecturer.

Eco-friendly campaign for Deepavali launched

East-West Seed India, a tropical vegetable seeds market, has conceptualised a plantable seed diya ahead of Deepavali. Under a campaign titled 'Yeh Diwali Seed Wali', these eco-friendly diyas have been designed with seeds of Butternut (cucurbita moschata), and Bengal Yellow, Marigold. Butternut has a sweet, nutty taste, similar to pumpkin and tan-yellow skin with orange fleshy pulp. It offers a good source of fibre, vitamin C and A, magnesium, and potassium. The thought behind seed diyas is to kindle an interest in kitchen gardening.

All you need to know about music awards

(The authors run SaPa - the Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts)

WITH the Grammy Awards just round the corner, a lot of independent musicians find themselves wondering what other prestigious awards their music is eligible for. And the answer is — a lot. Nearly every country has its own music award ceremony, which recognises top-performing artists and well-known up-and-comers.

Here are some of the world's most prestigious awards for musicians that you should know about:

The Polar Prize: This is a Swedish music award, and is considered the equivalent of the Nobel Prize of the music industry. It is highly selective and gives you two awards every year — one to a classical musician and one to a contemporary musician. It isn't limited to applicants from Sweden alone; it is open to a number of other countries. So far, 57 of these awards have been given, with Paul McCartney as its first recipient.

Mercury Prize: It is seen as an alternative to the BRIT awards. It gives away one award each year, to the best British or Irish album of the year. If the band has more than 50 per cent of its members from the UK or Ireland, they will be eligible.

Kennedy Center Honours: The Kennedy Center Honours are a US-based ceremony that awards major contributors to the arts. Unlike the Grammy awards, or the Polar and Mercury Prize, this award accepts nominations from the public and honours contributions to music, dance, theatre, and more.

Much like with the Grammys, most other music awards take applications from members of its committee.

The best way to approach them is via your distribution platform.

Next, members from the board will vote and decide who wins the awards. They include a good prize money and winners have reported a great increase in album sales and growth in publicity.

While we gear up for one of the most exciting moments in the music industry, it's important for all musicians to remember this: while it is an incredible honour to win or be nominated for these awards, they don't validate your worth as a musician.

Your music can still have a great impact and reach hundreds of thousands of listeners without winning an award.

Love bombing

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

HAVE you heard of Love Bombing? It is when a person appears in your life quite suddenly, claims you are The One they have been searching for all these days, and then proceeds to not just shower you with attention, affection and even gifts, but flood you with such things to the extent that you are quite literally shocked into paying full attention to them. It can seem quite unbelievable at first, and as it proceeds for days and weeks on end, it can start to feel really very special, and the disbelief you first felt can change into a grudging acceptance that might just turn into full-on capitulation. The kind of attention one gets when being love bombed can be quite something — everything one is, everything one does, and every word one utters is met with utter delight. It is a really heady feeling.

Thing is, love bombers are, more often than not, in it for themselves and not the object of their current fascination. At best, it is like a sudden downpour that might just be too much to take, but at its worst, it can be a masterful manipulative strategy to win over someone only to then proceed to dismantle the person's self-esteem till they are nothing but an object in service of them. It can start with seemingly simple requests of the type, "You are everything for me, can you just pay a little attention to the clothes you are wearing? I don't want everyone eyeing my special person!" It can then become quite angry, upset and controlling, wanting to know what you are doing every minute and changing your friends' circle and support system by telling you they don't like person A or B because, "They don't treat you right," or "They are not honourable in their intentions," or even, "They hate me, and if you like me, you can't like them." At its worst, love bombing is only the start of a deeply manipulative and abusive relationship.

In an attention-starved culture like most Asian cultures are, people who are not raised to value themselves, their attractiveness and are not experienced in the inter-personal skills that it takes to form healthy relationships, love bombing can be hard to resist. A young person, who has been controlled and restricted by their family of origin, never meeting other people for fear of romantic entanglement that might hurt family pride, might get carried away by such intense wooing.

Till our society evolves to a space where such vulnerabilities can be rooted out through strong social skills development that helps young people have a grounded sense of self and develop the skills to negotiate relationships, any of us can be vulnerable.

All we can do is to watch out for it, beware of sudden intense attention and ask the person to back off. If they can moderate themselves, maybe there's something to it. If not, call out the love bombing and just get far away from such people.

It's Shivanna's show all the way in this fantasy drama

BHAJARANGI 2

Cast: Shivarajkumar, Shruti, Bhavana, Saurav Lokesh, Cheluvaraj, Prasanna Bhageena, and Girish

Director: A Harsha Production: Jayanna Films

A SHARADHAA

BHAJRANGI 2, a fantasy drama with an undercurrent spiritual message, is a challenging undertaking. However, director Harsha, with the help of competent actors, has tried his best to pull off this rarely-attempted genre in Kannada.

The film starts with Guruji narrating the story of Anji (Shivarajkumar), his sister Alamelamma (Shruti), and Chinminki (Bhavana), to a group of villagers. Along with his listeners, the audience are also transported to this fantasy village named Harohalli. Alamelamma wants his brother to settle down in life, and as she gets close to achieving it, the entire village comes under an attack by a demon named Araka (Cheluvaraj). Anji has to now fight the formidable force against all odds.

Meanwhile, in a flashback episode, set in a different timeline, appears the mighty Bhajarangi. He is the local Robinhood-like figure, who believes that the ancient traditional practice of Ayurveda can cure deadly diseases. The connection between Bhajarangi's and Anji, and how the former helps the latter in beating the demon forms the crux of this action entertainer.

A social message with a hint of spirituality has been director Harsha's modus operandi. He takes a similar route with Bhajarangi 2, but this time, he has set his formula in a larger-than-life setup and characters. Though it works predominantly, too many characters and a lengthy narrative do strain the viewer.

RATING 3/5

The set and costume designs are the highlights of the film. A lot of deliberation has gone into elaborate set works. The scenes are dominated by greenery, which signifies nature and the environment. The art director and the costume designers have drawn a lot of references from various films - especially from the series Viking looks.

All said and done, Bhajarangi 2 is Shivarajkumar's show all the way.

The Century star has put a lot into differentiating the dual roles of the father and the son. It was not just about the looks, but he brings about the difference with the two different kinds of performances as well. Shruthi has a unique role here, and she justifies it in every frame. On the other hand, Bhavana makes a pleasing appearance in the film. Saurav Lokesh, Cheluvaraj, Prasanna Bhageena, and Girish also make a mark with their respective roles.

As far as the work of the technical crew goes, Harsha's vision is well backed by cinematographer J Swamy, which is further complemented by Arjun Janya's background score and tracks.

In the end, Bhajarangi 2 turns out to be a visual spectacle with fits and spurts of adrenaline rushes. It will be enjoyed by all kinds of audiences, but would still be a special treat for Shivarajkumar's fans.
